SPINNERS' UNION MEETING

AN IMPORTANT MEETING TO BE HELD THIS EVENING.

The Answers of the Mill Agents May be Considered and Action Taken.

The meeting of the Spinners' union which will be held this evening will be watched with interest by the mill operatives of the city for it was they who appointed a committee to meet the different mill agents of the city and demand a restoration of the ante-hard times schedule of wages.

This demand took a general form and actuated the unions throughout the various textile cities and in many places it met with success. But in this city, while the action of the spinners in appointing the committee caused a sensation in labor circles and a general demand in all departments was anticipated, the boom, if it might be so called, appears to have either died out or else it is now going through the period of calmness that precedes the battle.

The matter may come up at tonight's meeting, yet it is not certain that it will be even mentioned.

A SUN reporter called on President McCann of the Spinners' union for information upon the matter. But that gentleman had no information which he cared to give to the public.

The terms will be liberal; the choice of lots will be offered; the location for a suburban home is unexcelled; the neighborhood first class. Go without fail to the real auction sale on the new state highway at Middlesex Village tomorrow afternoon.

SEVERAL SEWERS

Petitioners Heard Last Night at City Hall.

ALDERMAN DOW PRESIDES AT THE MEETING.

The Need of More Sewers Made Apparent.

The hearings on two petitions of Shepard, Russell and Fuller for a system of sewerage at the Oaklands were the most important that claimed the attention of the committee on sewers last evening.

Part of the system proposed takes in a part of the town of Tewksbury. One of the plans is to have the sewer run down Wentworth avenue, Andover street, through private land and Locks & Canals land to the river. The other plan is to drain the Rogers land district.

Jesse Shepard spoke in favor and Wm. H. Anderson remonstrated on the ground of expense.

John Davis, Esq., in behalf of the Wentworth and McQuaid estates and Alexander Whittet also remonstrated on the ground of unnecessary expense.

Hearings were also given on the following petitions and there was no remonstrance:

Of A. K. Whitcomb et als. for sewer in Durant street.

Two petitions of George F. Penniman et als. for sewer in Warwick street.

For sewer in D street; A. J. Howe and J. W. Bennett appeared in favor.

For sewer in Midland street; A. W. Lang and E. F. Blodgett appeared in favor.

For sewer in Quimby avenue; A. P. Quimby and W. H. Ward appeared in favor.

For sewer in Cosgrove street; Samuel Tice and W. W. Clark appeared.

For sewer in Fay street; Henry Hatch and Luke O'Connell appeared.

For sewer in Sutherland street; O. E. Guthrie and Robert Stowell appeared.

In Ward One they changed the line so that now it runs through Central and Gorham streets to the central line of Appleton street instead of through Central street alone.

The original plans had the boundary running northwesterly through Hancock avenue instead of northeasterly and so the correction was made.

Then the line down the middle of Salem street to the middle of Cabot, was changed by saying "the line down the middle of Salem and Market streets to the middle of Cabot.

In Ward Five the change more particularly defines the points at Rogers street by the words "opposite the central line of Concord street," and there is the same sort of a change at Lakeview avenue by the words "opposite the central line of Fulton street."

In Ward Seven the change was made so as to have it correspond with the changes made in Ward Two.

Only minor changes are made in Ward Nine.

The order said in conclusion. "And it is further ordered, that the vote of this convention at its last meeting making a new division of the city into nine wards, and the records of said meeting be so amended as to incorporate therein the corrections enumerated in this order."

The order was then adopted as read.

An order was also adopted authorizing Alderman Varnum to petition the legislature to ratify and confirm the new division of the city into wards.

Piston Head Blown Out.

At Mystic Junction, last evening the piston head of the engine drawing the 6.15 train from Boston, blew out and delayed the arrival of passengers on that and later trains.

Tyngsboro' Town Meeting.

A town meeting was held at Tyngsboro' yesterday afternoon at which Jesse B. Butterfield acted as moderator. It was voted to accept the new school recently laid out by the road commissioners on the east side of the town, upon which the street railway connecting Lakeview and Nashua will pass, upon the signing of certain papers with the clerk. Martin L. Hamblett, Esq., was appointed town clerk for the remainder of the town year.

A NEW HOSPITAL OPENED AT CITY FARM.

It Was Greatly Needed in Order to Separate the Sexes—Now Occupied by 33 Men.

The new hospital for the insane at the city farm was finished and occupied yesterday. Into the new quarters 33 insane men have been transferred.

Supt. Collins claims it to be as fine as any of its kind.

It was formerly the school building but has been remodelled.

On the third floor it has six rooms, a dormitory for 12 beds and a bath room. There are six rooms on the second floor, a bath room and the hospital ward. The first floor has a large dining room, the recreation room, a toilet and clothes room. There is a yard for the use of the men into which they can go from the recreation room. The rooms are all painted and the walls tinted. The floors are of hard wood and the rooms on the first story are finished in northern pine. The inmates will have a separate attendant for their own department who will be responsible for nothing else.

Jump onto the electric cars tomorrow afternoon and go up to the genuine and real auction sale of building lots at Middlesex village.

OPERA HOUSE NEWS

"Lord Fauntleroy" will be the attraction at the Opera house this evening, tomorrow afternoon and evening. Little Miss Annie Laughlin of New York plays the part of the winning child, Lord Fauntleroy.

The other leading role is assumed by Miss Annie Clarke, one of the lights of the Boston Museum company. After the matinee tomorrow little Misss Laughlin will hold a reception for all the children who will be present at the performance.

The sale of seats promises a successful engagement to the company, but there are plenty of good seats left.

The weather cannot stop the splendid sale by auction of house lots on Middlesex and Wood streets, Middlesex Village tomorrow afternoon.

CHILDREN'S ENTERTAINMENT.

An Operetta Given Under the Direction of Mrs. R. A. Greene.

The children gave a delightful entertainment at the Grace church, last evening, singing an operetta under the direction of Mr. Robert Goodell and Mrs. R. A. Greene. Miss Jennie M. Burnett was the leading spirit of the play.

C. F. Keyes, auctioneer, 32 Church street.

Madame Rhea's Lecture.

Mme. Rhea entertained a large audience of school teachers and friends in the High school, yesterday afternoon, with a paper upon "Napoleon." The paper was a masterly one and her reading of it was charming. After the reading she gave a French selection and for an encore rendered "The Forget-Me-Not" in English. She held a short reception after the entertainment.

The teachers attended in large numbers and they were dressed in their finest, never looking handsomer. One would not imagine to look at the audience that they received no pay for the past three months.

Heavy Suit For Damages.

James Gallagher of Suffolk street, through his attorneys, the Messrs. Hogan, has attached the property of George E. Stanley in the sum of $5000 on a suit for damages. The plaintiff was in the defendants employ last winter and received injuries while driving a sled belonging to the defendant, owing, it is alleged, to the unsafe condition of the floor of the sled.

Dissolution of Partnership.

The U. S. Tea Co., is to be dissolved. A great sale commences Tuesday, May 14th and continues until $10,000 worth of the stock is sold. The business will be continued by P. J. Kinsella, one of the present owners.

On Gorham street, between the long brick block and Union street, the Egan property, large 7-tenement block numbered 251, next Monday, May 20th, promptly at 5.30 o'clock in the afternoon, and without limit or reserve of any kind whatsoever, I shall positively and absolutely sell to the highest bidder my valuable Gorham street property, located as above and exceedingly desirable as a tenement or investment property. It rents for $60 a month and that's a low rental; in the last seven years less than $50 has been lost in rents; the tenements are always in demand and never need be idle a single day; it's just opposite the temporary church of St. Peter's; is between the new post office and the new court house; is in splendid order and repair; has 35 rooms; there's a stable in the rear partially converted into a tenement; the balance is used at present for storage purposes; the lot has about 3000 square feet of land with a frontage of 30 feet; there's a passageway, called Egan's court, on the northerly side; all but four feet of it belongs with the premises; the front tenement was once a large store, but was changed by present owner into a tenement for his own use. Do you fully realize the position and future prospects of this estate? First, it's on Gorham street. Second, it's in one of the best locations on Gorham street. Third, it can never be worth any less. Fourth. No street in Lowell, with a single exception, has changed so much in character and increased so fast in value as Gorham street. Fifth. It's practically needed for business now. Sixth. It will be hard to select many pieces of real estate in Lowell today that have better prospects. Seventh. It has always been a serious mistake made by many purchasers in Lowell, with money to invest, in allowing opportunities like this to pass by and then investing elsewhere because the property is cheaper. You can examine and look the premises over any time. Sale rain or shine with J. E. Conant & Co., in charge. PATRICK SMITH.

CORDIAL REUNION

Of Company A, of the 33rd Regiment.

THE COMRADES TALK OVER WAR TIMES

And Renew Old and Undying Friendships.

The attendance at these reunions is gradually growing less but the enthusiasm never lessens. Yesterday afternoon the veterans were in a particularly pleasant frame of mind and previous to the annual business meeting, they sat around the hall, related stories, and exchanged reminiscences till it seemed like old times and the men were fighting the battles over again,—this time with words not bullets.

Capt. Chas. H. Kimball was here, there and everywhere, looking after the comfort of the guests and to him, in no small measure is due the success of the reunion.

At 3.30 the business meeting was held, and J. Varnum Abbott was chosen secretary pro tem. The roll call showed the following members present: S. C. Smiley, Erastus A. Bartlett, Charles H. Kimball, Henry Hope, Freeman B. Shedd, Jerome B. Brown, John R. Lowell and John McQuestion of this city, Nathan Ladd and T. A. Hardy of Groveland, Joseph Stacy and T. A. Stacy of Haverhill, Harry Messerve of Westford, James B. Smith of Andover, and J. Varnum Abbott of Dedham.

Besides these there were present as guests, Alderman Varnum, Charles H. Coburn, Dudly L. Page, Comrades Boies and Tuttle. Letters were received from Joseph L. Sladen of Portland, Oregon and A. C. Stacy of Boston.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, S. C. Smiley; vice president, John McQuestion; secretary, A. C. Stacy. The time and place of holding the next reunion was left with the officers to decide.

The matter of attending the dedication of the National park at Chicamagua, was brought to the attention of the company, and Capt. Kimball moved that a committee of three be appointed to confer with a committee of Co. A, 2nd regiment and see what arrangements can be made so that the members of both companies may go to Chicamagua.

The motion passed and Messrs. Smiley, Kimball and Shedd were appointed on the committee. The meeting then adjourned and the comrades repaired to the banquet hall where after partaking of a fine spread they were treated to a literary feast.

S. C. Smiley called to order and was glad to see so many members present and extended them a hearty welcome. He recalled that the company was first known as Co. L, Coburn Sharpshooters, named after a Lowell man whose son was present as the company's special guest. He then introduced Freeman B. Shedd as toastmaster.

Of course Mr. Shedd delighted in seeing so many of his comrades had responded to the call and that the gathering was such a happy one. It shows that the ties that bound us long ago have not been severed but rather strengthened. With a few complimentary remarks he called on Mr. Charles H. Coburn.

The latter said that his father had a great interest in the company and whatever he did was done willingly.

He dwelt upon the condition of the country during war times, and then drifted on the subject of patriotism. The lesson to be enforced is patriotism. While I glory and am glad that the people love the old flag, still this should not be carried too far. There is a tendency at present to allow it to enter to much into our relations with each other. We have those today who think that patriotism cannot exist in any one unless he belongs to some organization. Patriotism is broad, and is confined to no sect, and no particular person.

Alderman Varnum of course was glad to be with the veterans. His nomination and election he said came from such assistance as he saw before him. "You could pick out no one more interested in the soldiers than I am," he said. Speaking for the city council, he said he felt sure that it would pass the Memorial day appropriation.

President Smiley spoke in a happy strain and related many incidents of the war and also touched upon May 15, 1864, the day on which he lost his right arm.

He moved that Charles H. Coburn be made an honorary member and it was so voted.

Comrade McQuestion said a word of praise of F. B. Shedd whom he said, he believed saved his life, by the kind attention given him while in the hospital.

Capt. Kimball said he also felt he was indebted to F. B. Shedd for being able to present on this occasion. He assured those present that the regiment had no better friend than F. B. Shedd. "In '62 we had 98 men and 3 officers, and now we have but 19 all told, left. He asked all who could to attend each annual reunion and closed by requesting all the comrades to rise in respect to the memory of C. B. Coburn.

Other addresses were delivered by J. Varnum Abbott, Nathan Ladd, Joseph Stacy, Henry Hope, Comrade Smith, and Harry Messerve.

SEEKING A FENDER

That Will Prevent Accidents and Save Life.

As yet the street railway company has secured no safe fenders. It was six months ago that the directors voted to equip the cars with them. Since then, many different devices have been brought out none of them is any good.

The railroad committee of the Massachusetts legislature recently recommended the Blackstone fender, made and used in Baltimore. General Manager Sullivan has ordered one and he will give it a trial. If it proves satisfactory the cars will be equipped with them.

Mr. Sullivan says the company might have put in cheap fenders if it chose, but they are after one that will save lives.

The company, Mr. Sullivan says, intends to keep on experimenting till it gets a good fender. It is doing its utmost at present.

Out of sight is out of mind in a voting contest. Keep the name of your friend up high, where it can be seen and admired. It wins votes every time.

2 O'CLOCK

HONORED BISHOP

More About Archbishop Williams' Jubilee.

Glowing Scenes of Splendor at the Holy Cross Cathedral.

MGR. SATOLLI, CARDINAL GIBBONS AND GOV. GREENHALGE DELIVER ADDRESSES.

Many Other Speakers Also Heard—Archbishop Makes a Patriotic Response.

BOSTON, May 17.—Never in the history of the Roman Catholic church in Boston has there been such a service or a ceremony more interesting than that on which the gothic arches of the Holy Cross cathedral looked down yesterday. High officials from all over the country were gathered to do honor to Archbishop Williams by celebrating with fitting display the jubilee commemorating the completion of his 50th year of service in the church.

Of course, the archbishop himself was the central figure, and as celebrant of the pontifical high mass he was clothed in golden robes and wore on his head the peaked archbishop's cap. On the richly draped throne at the gospel side of the sanctuary, where the archbishop usually takes his position, was seated Cardinal Gibbons, whose eminence as the highest official present was marked by the brilliant coloring of his robe and the small cardinal cap.

A Scene of Splendor.

On the other side of the sanctuary, seated on the delegate's seat between two white-robed chaplains, was the delegate from Pope Leo XIII himself, Archbishop Satolli; while on the right of the cardinal's throne, between him and the sanctuary rail, there were seated the 20 or more visiting archbishops and bishops, the rich purple of their robes harmonizing finely with the deeper purple of the desks before them, and serving to set off the snowy whiteness of the robes of their priests in the benches behind.

But little attempt was made to enhance the effect of the scene with decorations, for, besides a display of beautiful lilies on the altar, only a few potted plants and palms were distributed about the sanctuary.

A Gift From the Pope.

After the preliminary ceremonies, Archbishop de Goesbriand passed from his place in the sanctuary down the aisle, preceded by a priest bearing a magnificent golden chalice, which had been brought from Rome, and which received the blessing of the pope on Easter morning. Archbishop de Goesbriand made a short address, in which he alluded to Archbishop William's 50 years of service in the church and to his influence among his people in Boston, and then presented the chalice to the archbishop in the name of the clergy of the province of Boston.

The sermon was by Rt. Rev. Bishop Bradley, who took for his text, "And the people were joyful in the sign of the sanctuary."

After the sermon came the completion of the celebration, in which Rev. Nicholas Walsh acted as deacon and Rev. Edward Connolly as sub-deacon. Rev. Thomas J. McCormack and Rev. Hugh O'Donnell were masters of ceremonies, and the assistant priest was Very Rev. William Byrne. The music was given by an augmented chorus of 160 voices.

The Evening Ceremonies.

The banquet hall was as densely crowded last night as the cathedral was during the morning exercises. Tables were spread for 1000 upon the capacious floor of Music hall, while the galleries were crowded. The hall was a bower of beauty, the tables being handsomely decorated with choice cut flowers, while the walls and ceilings were covered with bunting, interspersed with the American flags and draperies.

When Archbishop Williams arrived, a roar of applause burst from the audience. It had but just subsided when it broke forth again as Mgr. Satolli and Cardinal Gibbons appeared. Governor Greenhalge was also heartily greeted. Archbishop Williams took his place at the head of the guest table, with Cardinal Gibbons and Governor Greenhalge on his right, and Mgr. Satolli, Alderman Allen and Archbishop Corrigan on his left. The menu was elaborate.

After the banquet, Father Ronan of Dorchester, who acted as toastmaster, opened the exercises with a brief address, ending with an introduction of Rev. Thomas Magennis, who gave the address for the clergy.

Archbishop Williams' Remarks.

Archbishop Williams then arose to make response to the address of the representatives of the clergy and laity. His movement was the signal of such applause as has seldom been heard at a public meeting. The archbishop began by saying that this was the happiest day that he had passed in 50 years. "In reply to the addresses presented," he continued, "I have to say to my clergy that I have always had confidence in them and could rely upon them. The clergy and laity have always responded to any call made by me, and they have been most instrumental in the success of this archdiocese. I have to thank all those who have come to do us honor.

"Our hearts are full of gratitude to our holy father, the pope, for his many kind acts to us in Boston. After a day of various emotions, in which I have heard a great many exaggerations of what I have done, let me tell you that I have only been the standard bearer, and when you salute a standard bearer, you salute all those who fought with him. In conclusion, I trust the Union will remain at peace; that the country will be prosperous, and that dear, old Boston will have special blessings."

The Other Speakers.

Mgr. Satolli was the next speaker, and after reading the papal letter his address was read by his secretary, Dr. Rooker.

Governor Greenhalge followed. He paid both official and personal tribute to the worth and valuable life of the archbishop as a citizen of the commonwealth and a leader of men.

Cardinal Gibbons was to have spoken on the "American Hierarchy," but said he would ask the favor of being allowed to speak of a member of the American hierarchy—John J. Williams, archbishop of Boston. After this introduction, the cardinal delivered a eulogy on the archbishop and an historical sketch of the diocese of Boston since 1844.

Alderman Allen, who was present in place of Mayor Curtis of Boston, spoke for the municipality. His remarks closed the day's exercises.

REDISTRICTING CONVENTION

WARD LINES SETTLED AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING.

Changes in the Description of Ward Lines and in Some of the Lines Themselves—The Work Now to be Ratified by the Legislature.

The republican aldermen and councilmen, last evening, amended, or better perhaps corrected the redistricting plans adopted by them a couple of weeks ago.

The result of last evening's meeting goes to show just what a bungle they made in their mad rush to get the redistricting plans through the city council. Had the plans been allowed to stand as originally adopted, some of the voters would have been in rather a queer position, and there would be plenty of confusion on election day.

Had these republican councilmen and aldermen, not resorted to the high-handed business they did in adopting the redistricting plan and give the democratic members some time to consider the plans, it is safe to say there would have been no need of last evening's meeting.

Only seventeen members responded to the roll call, the democrats refusing to take part, and two of the republican aldermen being at a meeting of the sewer committee.

Alderman Varnum, presided and the resolution to revise and amend the redistricting plans was introduced by Alderman Tryder and passed.

The corrections made at first seem of little importance, the more you consider them, the greater appear the blunders made.

THE GLADSTONE CLUB.

Arrangements Perfected for the Events at Tonight's Meeting.

The meeting of the Gladstone club will be held tonight at the club rooms on Middle street and as the bouts are to be interesting it is thought the members will all turn out.

The assessment has been reduced one dollar since the opening of the club to accommodate many lovers of the sport, who were willing to become members but couldn't well afford to pay a high membership fee.

It is probable that Billy Smith will be in Sears' corner. The boxing will begin at eight o'clock sharp.

A number of Lowell sports will attend the meeting of the Suffolk club Monday evening, when Dick O'Brien and "Kid" McCoy will meet. The preliminary bouts will also be good ones.

BASE BALL NEWS.

If Lowell doesn't do up Salem, today it will be time to have an investigation for everything is with them today. Just think of it, Wednesday was pay day and yesterday they loafed. There has been considerable talk concerning the departure of Outcault for the west, yet not until I see the Genial James board a train with a ticket for the west in his pocket, will I believe that he is going to leave us. Don't hurry, Jim. Coyle and Hawley will probably stay out the season and the cranks are delighted to hear it. But it is rumored that some one or ones will be let down next week. Who they are I am unable to state at present. I will venture to say, however, there will not be quite as many pitchers here, next week.

A big crowd is expected tomorrow when Nashua will have it with Lowell. The game will be a good one, as Nashua Fitchburg and Lawrence are the greatest rivals of Lowell.

A large crowd will go down to Lawrence, Tuesday to see Jerry O'Sullivan lose $15 again and incidentally see the Indians done up. Flanagan will need to keep his courage up and his good humor likewise, as the cranks will undoubtedly try to get him mad before the game begins. Regarding that $15 I was pleased to know that the Sentinel came out as usual the next day.

HARRISON AT NEWARK.

The Ex-President the Recipient of a Gold Memorial Medal.

NEWARK, N. J., May 17.—The semi-centennial of the New Jersey Historical society was celebrated here yesterday, and the society had as its guest of honor Benjamin Harrison.

The most interesting feature of the exercises was the presentation to General Harrison of a gold memorial. The medal was struck to commemorate the formation of the constitutional government of the United States and the inauguration of George Washington, April 30, 1789. On one side is Washington's head, with the words: "Washington centennial medal; New Jersey Historical society, 1789; April 15, 1789." On the other side are the arms of the society and the words: "Above all things hold dear your national union." Mr. Harrison gets the medal because he was president just 100 years after Washington was.

The presentation speech was made by Dr. Austin Scott. The address of welcome was delivered by Professor Woodrow Wilson. In reply, General Harrison paid a high tribute to New Jersey for having been one of the states which stood firmly by the central government in its earlier days, and for giving way to other states when the nation was in peril through disagreement.

THE NEW WARDS

Outlined Last Night for the First Time.

REPUBLICANS HAVE MUDDLED THE WHOLE AFFAIR.

They Want Their Work Legalized by the Legislature.

The republicans completed the redistricting of the city last night. They had changes to make in almost every ward so that the re-division was not settled until last night.

Hence the new wards were not in existence on May 1, and the rule that a citizen shall vote in the ward in which he resides on May 1 shall not apply to them.

The whole affair is badly muddled all though everything would have been done deliberately if the advice of the democrats had been taken.

The bill contains no instruction to the board of registrars to provide a checklist on new ward lines for the next city election. It does provide however that the next state election in this city shall be conducted on the old ward lines but that would have taken place without an act of the legislature.

A few days before the redistricting bill passed, the legislature passed an act providing that the redivision of the cities of the commonwealth with the single exception of Lowell should not take effect till next year so that there will then be no need of two checklists.

The republicans of Lowell were so exercised with greed for a couple of offices that they had a special act passed for their own purposes.

Now they have it so muddled up that another act of the legislature is deemed necessary to make it applicable to the next city election.

They blundered at the first convention by indescreet haste and now they have held another convention to undo much that was done.

This last redivision we are told is legal but, nevertheless, they want the legislature to ratify it in order to make it doubly sure.

What the legislature should do is to put the matter over till next year.

Why have special legislation to satisfy the partisan cravings of a little coterie of politicians?

THE GOLD brick is still in great demand way down in Maine. Herman Whipple of Solon has just paid $10,000 for two made of brass.

THE PHARMACY fair collapsed. It closed for want of patronage. The public said "enough" and that settled it. The management will do better next year.

LOWELL is getting down in the base ball scale. Don't go on on that downward grade. Start upward again. Captain Flanagan, Manager Mahoney, don't be beaten.

JUDGE HADLEY decides that an officer in making an arrest on a warrant should have the warrant with him and show it. That is nothing new although it does not seem to have been the custom with the Lowell police.

WILL THE supreme court decide on the quo warranto case on the 21st instant? If it decides in favor of Sullivan what then? A jury trial that will last a year. If against Sullivan, what? A writ of ouster and another fight for the presidency.

THE REDISTRICTING convention completed its work last night. Now every illegality as seen by republicans has been overcome. The fraud that disfranchises half the people of the city for a number of years is to be dignified by the name of law but the legislature has yet to make it law.

MAYOR COURTNEY has exploded the subterfuge of the republican councilmen in claiming that they would have entered meeting and done business if they had been called together on the same night with the aldermen. They have been called on the same night no less than three times but still they refused to enter meeting. They have some great leaders outside their ranks who put the fight for a couple of offices ahead of the city's business which they were elected to perform. We want a law providing for the punishment of aldermen or councilmen who fail to perform their duties or openly ignore the purpose of their election, the demand of the people and the appeals of the chief executive of the city.

A WORD TO PARENTS.

The fatality on Middlesex street coming so soon after that on Westford street should teach parents to keep their children off the streets. Motormen and drivers know how hard it is to avoid running over children, inasmuch as they run after teams, catch on behind, steal rides, run in front of cars and in a thousand ways leave themselves liable to be run over. It is time that parents should realize that the car track is not the place for their children. Parents are more to blame than anybody else for these railroad fatalities because they should not allow little children to frequent car tracks or to be near any danger of the kind.

ARCHBISHOP WILLIAMS' GOLDEN JUBILEE.

No event in the history of the Catholic church in this country ever brought together as large a number of distinguished prelates as are now celebrating the golden jubilee of Archbishop Williams' ordination. It is an important epoch in the life of the church in America for within the past fifty years under the guidance of Archbishop Williams the Catholic church has had a most prosperous growth, a growth unequalled in any other part of the country within the same period or perhaps at any period. To his pious zeal, his quiet but firm and conservative ways, his executive ability and his indefatigable efforts in overcoming difficulties, may be attributed the high status of the church in this country. If Archbishop Williams were willing to accept higher honors at the hands of the Holy See, they would be conferred ere now, but humility is one of his strongest characteristics. He wants no higher honors, indeed their is reason to believe that His Grace earnestly begged that they should not be thrust upon him in his declining years. Other men may surpass him in qualities of brilliancy, they may be more learned and better orators; indeed His Grace never made any pretence to being an orator, although a good, forcible preacher, but none excels him as the administrator of a large diocese. He has, moreover, the faculty of winning the good will and esteem of all classes, so that he is beloved and revered by the entire public of Boston as a power for good in the community, a power whose influence goes outside Boston uplifting the weak, leading humanity onward in the path of righteousness, making obedience to the laws of God and our country, the rule of conduct for all men.

LET IT BE DISCUSSED.

The Board of Trade at its last meeting discussed the proposition to establish a purchasing agency for the city as suggested by THE SUN some time ago. Mr. Chalifoux believes that such an agency, if properly conducted, would be a source of great saving to the city. It is no harm to discuss the question on its merits and if in the judgment of men who have had experience in such matters the change would be beneficial let it be effected. If there was a purchasing agency removed from politics the republicans of the common council would not go on strike to prevent Pres. Sullivan from appointing committees.

DON'T AGREE WITH RECORDS.

McKinley's Statements Concerning the Treasury Condition In 1893.

The inaccuracies which Governor McKinley indulged in in his recent Hartford speech continue to excite comment and criticism. Among the very glaring misstatements was that which alleged that the Harrison administration at the close of its term of office "turned over to Mr. Cleveland's administration $124,000,000 surplus."

It is well known that on the 20th of February, 1893, just 13 days before the expiration of President Harrison's term, the then secretary of the treasury, Mr. Charles Foster, instructed the chief of the bureau of engraving and printing to prepare plates for the issue of bonds to supply an impending treasury deficiency. The fact was first brought to notice by the Kansas City Times and has since been widely published by the leading newspapers of the country.

But that is not the only evidence in contradiction of Governor McKinley's misstatement of facts. On the 25th of February, 1893, only a week before the expiration of Harrison's term of office, Secretary of the Treasury Foster appeared before a committee of congress and stated that "while there is no fear of a bankrupt treasury the situation is one demanding serious consideration," and added that he thought "there would be a surplus of $17,000,000 on July 1, 1893."

There is an ancient but not commendable code of morals which holds that "a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth," but that was at a time when records were inaccessible. Governor McKinley, who is a last century statesman, seems still to adhere to that idea, but he's not likely to convince the public in the face of the facts.—Kansas City Times.

There Is Nothing the Matter With the Democratic Tariff.

There is unquestionably a remarkable revival of industry all over New England. Fall River has advanced the pay of operatives from 10 to 12 per cent, and other centers of the textile industry have followed. This is only one phase of the revival. The shoe towns are doing a rushing trade, and, in fact, there is increased activity from Maine to Rhode Island.

The revival in the textile factories, marked by a general increase of wages, is most noticeable because most recent. The wage schedule in Fall River, which has gone into effect, affects about 25,000 employees. The advance in most cases ranges from 10 to 12 per cent, and this means an increase of from $15,000 to $20,000 in the weekly pay rolls of the city.

In Providence and other parts of Rhode Island the manufacturers are coming back to the rates that prevailed before 1893. The Weybosset Woolen mills of Olneyville have increased wages $1.05 per week, and the largest cotton manufacturers will undoubtedly follow the example of Fall River. Down in the Quinebogg valley notices of increase have been made, and 6,000 operatives are happily affected in western Rhode Island and eastern Connecticut mills.

In Haverhill business is good, and wages will be increased just as soon as the local board of conciliation and arbitration can decide upon a scale.

In Weymouth the shoeshops are turning out large amounts of goods, and some are so rushed with orders that they are compelled to run holidays.—New York Mercury.

How to Make Croutons.

To make croutons butter a slice of evenly cut bread. Divide it into cubes that will be one-third of an inch on a side. This will necessitate cutting the slice of bread exactly a third of an inch thick. Place these little cubes on a tin plate or shallow dish and put the dish on the grate in a moderate oven for 15 minutes. When done, they should be light golden brown throughout, crisp and brittle. Sometimes cubes of bread are fried in fat to resemble croutons, but unless done by a skillful hand they lack the delicate flavor of those which are buttered and browned in an oven.

"Sweated" Clothing.

Deputy Factory Inspector John Francy of New York says that all but 15 of the 385 wholesale clothing manufacturers in New York city have their goods made up in sweatshops, and the goods generally lie for some time in the rooms occupied night and day by the sweaters. Since the passage of the factory law about 15,000 sweaters have been driven out of New York, and complaints were received from the New Jersey inspectors saying that their law was not adequate to cope with them.

HIS LITTLE SURPRISE.

But He Wouldn't Wait to See How She Liked It.

They had eaten a philopena, and as the result was doubtful they each decided to pay the forfeit, which had been left for the loser's own selection.

They happened to meet on the street that day, and as he turned to walk back with her he said:

"I've just come from your house, Miss Edith, and I hope you will like what I have left there."

"Oh, I'm sure I shall. You always have such lovely taste. I, too, have just sent you a trifle which I hope you may find to your liking."

"Oh, Miss Edith, you know I couldn't help liking anything you would select."

"Oh, I can hardly wait to go home to see what you have brought me."

"I, too, am curious to know what my present is. But where have you been?"

"I just came from May's. I had intended to remain all the afternoon, but that horrid little dog of hers made me so nervous that I really couldn't stay."

"Don't you like dogs?"

"Oh, yes, some dogs, but this is one of those horrid little pugs. I never could bear a pug."

"Oh, Miss Edith, I thought you"—

"Had too much good sense to like the horrid things? Thank you. I knew you would understand me. You always do."

"I—er—isn't that Dick Brownsmith coming toward us?"

"Why, yes, it is. What a well dressed man he is."

"Rather, yes—that is, barring his ties. I never could think anything of a man who wears red neckties."

"Why, I thought you"—

"Would never be seen wearing such a thing? Thank you for your good opinion. I won't."

"I—ah—well, here we are at home. You will come in, won't you?"

"Why, er—no—that is, I really haven't time. I—I must go home and see the loving gift you have sent me."

"Oh, don't be in a hurry about that. You really ought to come in and see my surprise and pleasure when I first see your charming present."

"You are sure to be surprised at any rate, Miss Edith," said the young man, with a sickly smile, as he backed down the steps.

His words were verified, for she found that he had brought her a pug, while on reaching home he opened a perfumed packet to find that she had sent him—a red necktie. And now they are wondering what to say to each other when they next meet.—Pittsburg Post.

A Puzzling Question.

"Yonder she comes," said a tall, lank man who was sitting on a trunk near the railroad station.

"Yonder who comes?" asked a fat, heavy man who sat near him.

"The train," replied the lank man.

"Why do you say, 'Yonder she comes?'" asked the fat man.

"Well, that's the customary way of speaking of a train, isn't it? And custom is what fixes things. Everybody says, 'Yonder she comes,' in speaking of a train's approach."

"Well, I insist you should have said, 'Yonder he comes.'"

"Oh, pshaw! Nobody ever says 'he' in speaking of a train," returned the lean man.

"Well, I'll agree to leave it to the station agent and see if it wouldn't have been better for you to have said, 'Yonder he comes,'" added the fat man.

Both agreed to it, and when they had found the agent the fat man asked:

"What is the train just coming into the station?"

"It's a mail train," he answered.

Then the lean man went out and bought a good cigar for the fat man.—Washington Post.

TELL-TALE FACES.

PINCHED AND CAREWORN,

As Worn by Many American Women.

(SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.)

The "tell-tale face" is worn by many American women, and is a symptom of symptoms, a signal of distress.

When pains and aches are felt in every part of the body, when faintness, dizziness, and that bearing-down feeling prevail, when loss of sleep and appetite are reducing flesh daily, when the society of friends is irksome, and the hopeless "blues" predominate, then the face is pinched, haggard, and careworn, and prompt relief is necessary, or a beautiful life will be sacrificed.

An American woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, a student of women and their diseases, twenty years ago succeeded in producing an absolute cure for all diseases of women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands to-day as it did then, pre-eminent.

Mrs. H. Wampler, of Barabo, Wis., whose letter we were permitted to publish last year, writes that she hopes Mrs. Pinkham will continue to use her name, as the publication in newspapers of the account of her own wonderful cure and relief from years of misery has been the means of influencing many suffering women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and become well like herself. Mrs. Wampler feels, and rightly, too, that in this way she is doing a great good.

ARMENIAN LAWS

Reforms Suggested By the Powers to Sultan.

THEY ARE FAVORABLY RECEIVED AT PORTE.

Impression That Abuses Would Soon Revive.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 17. — The note presented to the sultan by the representatives of the powers, respecting reforms in Armenia, comprises 25 closely written quarto pages. Among the measures preliminary to the reforms, the note demands the appointment of a high commissioner, general amnesty for and release of all political prisoners, the revision of certain judgments and the appointment of a commission to sit at Constantinople, charged with the surveillance and application of the reforms, and working in concert with the high commission previously referred to.

The principal reforms demanded are that the governors and vice governors of Van, Erzeroun, Sivas, Bitlis, Kharput and Trebizonde be Christian or Mussulman according to how the population of these places is divided. In any case, the governor or vice governor is to be a Christian. The note also suggests that such officials should first be Approved by the Powers.

In regard to the finances, all the taxes are to be collected by the local and not by state officials, and enough is to be retained before the money is forwarded to Constantinople to defray the cost of local administration. This is the exact opposite to the present system, by which taxes are first sent to Constantinople, from which city but little money returns to Armenia.

The judicial reforms proposed by the powers make radical changes in the present system, ensure proper trials, the surveillance of prisons and the total abolition of torture. The gendarmerie, or police, is to be composed equally of Turks and Christians, and the latter and Kurds are still to be retained in the notorious nomadian cavalry, but they are not to be allowed to have arms, except during drill. Finally, the government is asked to revoke the law against Compulsory Conversion to Islam.

In many circles here it is contended that the foregoing reforms are quite inadequate, and that the abuses complained of by the Armenians will soon recommence.

The sultan read the note of the powers attentively, and his reception of it was not unfavorable. It is understood that he recognized that the proposals do not compromise his sovereign rights or dignity.

He has had several conferences with various ambassadors, and in an audience with Baron Calice, the Australian ambassador, the latter strongly urged the sultan to acquiesce with the demands of the powers. The sultan was not offended and sent him a valuable present. He appeared to count upon the moral support of Emperor William of Germany, to whom he has sent an autograph letter by Bertram Effendi, under secretary of the bureau of indirect taxation.

BALFOUR'S METHODS.

Tapped Building Company and Martin's Bank For Goodly Sums.

LONDON, May 17.—Jabez Spencer Balfour was again arraigned in court yesterday to answer further charges of fraud. Part of the evidence taken related to the diversion of funds from the Building Securities company toward speculations in land in which Lord Sudeley was concerned. Balfour drew from the building company for these purposes £7770 ($38,850).

JABEZ SPENCER BALFOUR.

Sudeley testified that he agreed with Balfour to form a syndicate to purchase land in Kansas. He and Balfour, together with Balfour's son, had shares amounting to £17,400 ($87,000), which were obtained by a loan from Martin's bank.

The secretary of the Building company testified that Balfour told him that the company's shares were deposited in Martin's bank as security for a loan to himself and Sudeley.

China Without a Navy.

LONDON, May 17.—The Brussels correspondent of The Telegram says that, by command of the emperor, the Chinese admiralty was dissolved March 24, owing to the abject incompetence of its officials and a deficit of over $5,000,000. There is no prospect that the department will be re-established, or that China will buy any more warships abroad.

Oscar Isn't Feeling Well.

LONDON, May 17. — The attorney for Oscar Wilde, referring to rumors that his client would forfeit his bail, states that Wilde will certainly appear for trial when wanted. Wilde is at his mother's house in Chelsea. His health is in a wretched condition.

NICARAGUA SETTLES UP.

Differences With Great Britain Smoothed Over For the Present, at Least.

LONDON, May 17.—In compliance with the agreement under which the British men-of-war withdrew from Nicaragua, on condition that the smart money, amounting to $75,000, demanded by Great Britain for the expulsion of Consul Hatch be paid in London within 15 days, that amount was yesterday covered into the treasury of Great Britain on behalf of Nicaragua by Senor Chrisanto Medina, minister to London for Salvador, who has acted for Nicaragua in London throughout the episode thus closed. Nicaragua had until May 20 to pay the indemnity under the terms of agreement, which allowed her 15 days after the British warships left Corinto. The departure of the British took place May 4.

The payment of the smart money closes the incident which resulted in the occupation of Corinto for a week by British marines and the floating of the British flag over that town. That portion of the dispute which Great Britain declined to submit to arbitration is thus settled. Such damages for losses to British subjects in Nicaragua as are claimed by Great Britain and remain unsettled, the British government has consented to submit to arbitration.

Not a Case of Drowning.

BROCKTON, May 17.—Peter Wingdren, a peddler, was arrested last night on suspicion of having murdered Nils Paulson, a stonecutter, whose body was found April 22 in a bog hole in a meadow at East Bridgewater. When the body was found it was given out that Paulson met his death by drowning. Yesterday afternoon the body of Paulson was exhumed, and Medical Examiner Paine found a wound back of the left ear, which was sufficient to cause death. Wingdren is 33 years old. It is not known what motive could have prompted any one to kill Paulson, but it is believed that the police have evidence which they have decided not to make public just yet.

Okeyville Strikers' Terms.

PROVIDENCE, May 17. — The strikers have issued the following statement: They want two mills a pick in computing wages of weavers; cloth must be measured on a basis of 56 inches to the yard, and not on 37 and 38, as heretofore; the two-loom system must be abolished; the fine system must be also done away with, and in all other departments must be the same as those paid prior to the cut-down of 1893. The strikers say they will not return, under any circumstances, unless the manufacturers come to terms.

A gang of 65 men are managing the drive, which could not be started over the falls on account of repairs which are being made to the Amoskeag bridge. It will take three weeks for the drive to pass this city.

AN INTERESTING EXPERIMENT

SHOWING THAT CARBONIC ACID IS HEAVIER THAN AIR.

A Great Advance in Photography—An Explosive Shell Pierces Armor Plate—Natural Soap—A Remarkable Tree—Other Interesting Items.

Construct a siphon or bent tube of paper as follows: On a square rule roll a dozen thicknesses of linen paper, moistened with mucilage. After a good coating remove the rule and allow the tube to dry thoroughly. Now cut your tube off, about a quarter of its own length from one end, at an angle of 45 degrees with a sharp knife and glue the ends together so as to form a hollow rectangle, as in the illustration. You will then possess a practicable siphon for your purpose.

Now fill a bottle half full of strong vinegar and water (1 part best pickling vinegar to 2 of water) and throw in a few crys tals of washing soda, such as is used in every kitchen. Immediately you will perceive a tremendous bubbling up of great gas globes. This is carbonic acid.

In the neck of your bottle place the short end of the siphon, while the extremity of the larger branch rests on the edge of a broad glass jar such as is often used for fruit preserves. In the jar are placed three lighted candle ends of different heights, say, of 1 inch, of 2 inches and of 3 inches.

The carbonic acid gas penetrates the shorter branch of the siphon, and creeping upward displaces the air as it goes till it literally falls down the longer limb, carrying the remainder of the gas with it as it proceeds. This, entering the jar, forms a layer at the bottom, and gradually rising higher, like King Canute's ocean tide, extinguishes the 1 inch candle slowly, but surely, puling its flame first, then putting it out, and, lastly, even "putting a damper" on the glowing wick. Then the second flame, that has maintained till now bold front—smiling, as it were, at the misfortunes of its lowlier companion—feels the icy hand and falls ignobly. Last of all, the third.

A Great Advance In Photography.

A new process representing a wonderful improvement in printing photographs is one by which it is claimed that 100,000 photographs were printed in one day. The process consists of automatically printing direct from photographic negatives by artificial light on sensitized paper in a continuous roll. The paper is fed under the negatives in a machine that switches the lights on and off for the consecutive exposures, and then carries the paper thus printed to a series of tanks containing the proper chemicals to develop the latent image.

An Explosive Shell Pierces Armor Plate.

Only solid shot, and not hollow shells, have hitherto been sent through the thin armor plate which covers the nonvital parts of a warship. But, according to the New York Tribune, the 13 inch Wheeler-Sterling shell, recently tested by the United States naval authorities, will penetrate a seven inch steel plate so easily that it is now possible to carry a powerful explosive inside of a ship, where it could not be done before. Hence heavier armor will be needed on the parts of a ship not formerly well protected.

Natural Soap.

For some time past a number of men have been at work collecting a saponaceous material, or natural soap, from the banks of Owen's lake, California, says Cassell's Magazine. The soap appears to be formed from a solution of borax and soda in the water of the lake and the oil from the myriads of dead flies which fall into the water. It gathers like a scum on the surface and is nearly an inch thick. The layers forming year after year have collected into a bank of natural soap.

A Remarkable Tree.

It has been discovered, according to The National Druggist, that the famous tree from the bark of which quinine is obtained furnishes no quinine except in malarial regions. If a tree is planted in a malarial district, it will produce quinine. If it is planted in a nonmalarial district, it will not produce quinine. It is therefore claimed that quinine is a malarial poison, drawn from the soil and stored up by this wonderful tree.

One of the First of Earth's Creatures.

rusks and other zoophytes in great variety. Here also are found a number of trilobites, echirus and other forms.

Scientific authority states that the trilobites were among the first creatures inhabiting our globe and it is a curious fact to contemplate that their eyes should have been preserved perfect. They present one of those wonderful objects which carry one's thoughts backward to the early ages of the world. The eyes of trilobites have from 400 to 6,000 facets, according to the species, and from their peculiar structure it is conjectured that the trilobites lived in the shallow waters of the seashore, with power to look upward through the water.

IN UTTER TERROR

The Cable of the Prescott Store House

LIABLE TO FALL OVER PRESCOTT STREET.

Cars Stopped, Traffic Cut Off, Wall Being Propped.

There is terror on Prescott street. The gable of the Prescott Store house has bulged out several inches since morning.

It was reported dangerous early this morning and the sidewalk was roped off.

At noon the bulge in the middle of the wall was more protuberant and men were set to work with logs of timber to prop it up.

A board was put up at either side of the building with the word "Danger" in large letters.

A large gang of men were at work and they worked hard.

The foreman in charge was heard to caution the workmen to look out and be ready to jump in case the wall would give way.

He said he would watch and give the alarm in case the wall gave way.

The men were at the base of the wall on the sidewalk and could not possibly escape unless perhaps to the side of the gable fell out as it seemed in imminent danger of doing.

A SUN reporter was sent to see Manager Sullivan at 1.30 p. m., to inquire if he would allow cars to continue running there. He said that he had just ordered the Prescott line cut off, the cars to take Central street and Merrimack instead.

This was a wise precaution because the pedestrians who happened to come along Prescott street would not venture to pass even in the opposite side of the street without running and at the same time watching the treacherous wall.

At 2 p. m., the police arrived on the scene and shut off all traffic.

At that time about a dozen men were clinging to a scaffolding they had erected against the gable up as high as the eave. Had the wall given way they would have been utterly unable to escape.

They were in imminent peril of losing their lives, but still they worked hard and with their shouts to one another would remind one of a lot of sailors in the rigging of a ship in a storm.

The wall is being propped up by logs until iron braces can be put in, or until it can be taken down. Only prompt action prevented it from falling perhaps on a crowd of mill people or on an electric car.

The house is stocked with bales of cotton, and the pressure of these against the upper part of the wall caused it to sag and bulge out.

Inspector John F. Murphy was notified and ordered the company to remove the bales of cotton and run iron rods with large washers to brace the wall or else tear it down.

Games and social pastimes were enjoyed till about 10 o'clock when refreshments were served. The managers were: Messrs. Horace Sloane, Dana Hart, George Lyons, Frank Lyons, Wm. BEFORE JUDGE LAWTON.

The Marital Troubles of Dr. and Mrs. Simmons Are Aired.

Another chapter of the marital troubles of Dr. E. H. Simmons and wife was heard in the Probate court room, this morning before Judge Lawton and a small attendance of highly interested spectators. The case was a hearing on the petition of Mrs. Simmons for separate maintenance and the petitioner was represented by W. H. Anderson, Esq. The respondent also had counsel.

The hearing was similar in its nature to the cases of non-support which were reported when the trial was held in the police court the defendant then being adjudged guilty.

Mrs. Simmons occupied the stand and between the arguments of the counsel or both sides concerning method of procedure, points of law, etc., testified to the negligence of the doctor in supporting her and the children and told also of one occasion where one of the boys was taken by his father surreptitiously, while at play.

The respondent maintained that had the boys been left with him and at school they would have been cared for all right.

During the progress of the case a very interesting point was raised by Lawyer Anderson. The latter had asked Mrs. Simmons the question:

"With whom does Walter (aged 13) prefer to live?"

"We had better hear Walter's testimony in regard to that," answered counsel for the other side.

Then Mr. Anderson said that in trying the case he had endeavored to keep the children out of it entirely.

Judge Lawton said: "No child of 13 years of age should be brought into court to hear or discuss any trouble between its father and mother."

The question put by Mr. Anderson was ruled out, however, and circumstances arising later will determine whether or not the boy will be brought into court to state his preference.

JUDGE HADLEY EXPLAINS.

That a Man Should Know Why He Is Arrested in Certain Cases.

Judge Hadley, this morning, explained his ruling regarding warrants as follows:

"The law," he said, "plainly says that officers when making arrests on charges of misdemeanors must have with them the warrant unless they themselves were witnesses of the offense committed.

"A person has the right to know why he is arrested and all officers are obliged to recognize that right.

"But this law does not extend far. It refers to misdemeanors. In all cases of drunkenness, assault, disturbance, etc., which the officer sees, the offender may be arrested on the spot; and in cases of larceny the officer may arrest at the instigation of the person robbed.

"I know it has been the custom to instruct officers to arrest a man on the authority of a warrant kept at the police station, but when called upon to rule upon the question I must decide that it is illegal."

An excellent chance. A splendid opportunity. Twenty-five unusual building lots. On Middlesex street. The new state highway. (Princeton street.) Wood street. Cornell street. Columbia street. Colby street. No grading.—Level.—Dry.—Handsome.—New school house in one corner of premises. Step into the auctioneer's office and get a small plan. Electric cars pass the lots every fifteen minutes. Commencing promptly at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, regardless of the weather, and without limit or reserve of any kind whatsoever we shall sell to the highest bidders twenty-five house lots that are certainly beyond question or argument very choice and selected building sites. The streets are graded and very level; are 40 and 50 feet wide; the sidewalks are laid; buildings on the lot will be restricted to a uniform distance from the street lines; only one set of buildings on a lot, no house to be occupied by more than two families. It is the intention of the present owners of this land to make this property one of the ideal residence sections of Lowell for families in moderate or comfortable circumstances to build first class homes in a respectable neighborhood; in an exceedingly healthy location; within easy distance of the city; on one of the most important thoroughfares running out of the city; and the new state highway, already ordered by the state highway commissioners, running across the premises, is to be the best laid out and made avenue in Middlesex county. In the whole plot there are 80 lots, and every one when sold will be restricted alike; the restrictions to hold 20 years from 1895. The lots vary in size, but are uniform in shape, contain from 4600 to 10,000 square feet of land each, and frontages from 50 to 100 feet. It's more than 20 years since so desirable and attractive a sale of land has taken place in this part of Lowell. The land we offer has been in one family since 1807; there's many an attempt been made to secure some of it, but until now could not be purchased at any price. Purchasers, if they desire, can leave two-thirds of the purchase money on mortgage. One word to the public. This is the year to buy real estate. The above lots can never be worth any less. As a matter of fact they will soon be much more valuable; if from no other cause than the natural course of events; better than that, though, is the undisputable fact that as soon as a few of the lots are built upon the others will soon go up in price. The lots will bear the closest scrutiny and examination; and the more you look them over and into the matter of purchasing one, the more you are convinced of their desirability and attractive qualities for a comfortable home. Lowell from the very beginning has made its most substantial and healthy growth in this direction, and, with the new state highway decided upon, the prospects are greater and better than ever. There are already three new and modern houses on the land. J. E. Conant & Co. are to serve as auctioneers.

C. Taylor got the house and shed for $1500.

A lengthy case was that of William P. Hughes charged with getting out of Mrs. Lord's boarding house, owing $10.

Joseph Marrien pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault and battery on a girl named Perras. It was a case of "lovers once, but strangers now," for though the girl had lived with Marrien in Canada some time ago, she had no use for him when he met her on the canal walk, Saturday night. She said that Marrien called her bad names and when she attempted to strike him with an umbrella, he struck her with his fist over the eye and on the shoulder.

If you'll step into the office of J. E. Conant & Co., and get one of the small plans of the land on Middlesex, Princeton, Cornell, Columbia, Colby and Wood streets; to be sold by absolute auction tomorrow afternoon, you may find something to interest you.

LOWELL WATER BOARD.

More Meters Wanted to Prevent Waste of Pure Water.

The members of the water board devoted considerable time to a discussion of water meters last evening and voted to establish a meter system and to ask for a loan of $30,000, to purchase the 3000 water meters now in use and owned by citizens. The idea is to have the city furnish meters to every customer.

After passing the motion, it was found that it conflicted with the ordinances and so it was rescinded.

It was then voted to request Mayor Courtney to appoint a committee from the city council to confer with the board and see what steps can be taken in the matter.

2 O'CLOCK

CUBAN HOME RULE

Would End the Troubles of That Island.

SPAIN HAS BROKEN FAITH WITH CUBA.

General Campos May Try to Make Amends.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Reports reaching here are to the effect that General Campos has advised the Spanish government to allow him to institute a series of reforms in Cuba as a means of bringing the rebellion to an end. It is stated that the Spanish minister of colonial affairs has approved the plan, and it will be put into execution at an early day. It was by such means that General Campos brought the former rebellion to an end.

On Feb. 10, 1878, Campos issued a proposal of reforms, embracing eight articles, including amnesty to all who had borne arms, surrender of the rebel bands in private, where they would not be subject to humiliation, liberation of the slaves, a reform of the government, giving the same privileges already enjoyed by Porto Rico, and release of all prisoners.

This was accepted by the rebels, and the uprising, which had lasted 10 years, was closed. General Campos was given the name of "The Pacificator," which has since been applied to him. Spain was slow, however, in carrying out the promised plan of reform, and it is claimed that some of the promises were never kept. This has

Stimulated the Present Outbreak.

It is said that an offer of settlement at the present time in order to be acceptable to the rebel leaders would have to include autonomy, or home rule for Cuba, expenditure of income from Cuban taxes on internal improvements instead of for Spanish war and naval expenses, amnesty to all engaged in the present uprising, and the full execution of reforms promised in 1878.

A few months ago the Queen Regent of Spain assented to a plan by which a certain approach to home rule was granted to Cuba, but the rebellion broke out, and Spain thereupon suspended the reforms she was about to grant. It is said these now will be put into operation as a part of the plan of settlement.

The conservative classes of Cuba are said to be anxious for such a settlement, and the radical element, it is thought, is too much reduced by defeats to lose the opportunity of an honorable peace, assuring their personal safety.

THE BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

A LEXOW INVESTIGATION FOR BOSTON DEPARTMENTS.

Resolution to Borrow $1,000,000 For the Great Strandway Along Crescent Beach.

BOSTON, May 17.—The senate adopted an order for an investigation of the methods of the Boston departments, a la Lexow. The order provides for a joint committee of the senate and house to sit jointly during the legislative recess. The house voted to reduce the state fire marshal's salary to $3500; the treasury committee reported against the bill increasing the insurance commissioner's salary to $5000, and a number of minor salary bills were engrossed or rejected. The house restored the original appropriation of $10,000 to enable the state to be properly represented at the dedication of the national military park on the battlefields of Chickamauga and Chattanooga. The senate refused to concur in the house amendment to the children's aid bill. The bill authorizing the Brookline Gas company to lay its pipes across Fort Point channel was enacted. The house substituted a bill providing for a commission to investigate the claim of Worcester that the state should reimburse that city for a portion of the expense of constructing its new sewer system. The bill authorizing Spiritualists to solemnize marriage was engrossed. The bill authorizing Boston to borrow $1,000,000 for the completion of the strandway was ordered to a third reading in the house, as was the bill for the further prevention of gambling.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 17.—Union with Canada has been abandoned. Premier Whiteway is willing to accept the royal commission to examine into the finances only. Whiteway states that Great Britain was willing to guarantee a loan of £2,000,000 had Newfoundland passed the bill endorsing the French treaty, designed to settle the shore claims.

An excellent chance. A splendid opportunity. Twenty-five unusual building lots. On Middlesex street. The new state highway. (Princeton street.) Wood street. Cornell street. Columbia street. Colby street. No grading.—Level.—Dry.—Handsome.—New school house in one corner of premises. Step into the auctioneer's office and get a small plan. Electric cars pass the lots every fifteen minutes. Commencing promptly at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, regardless of the weather, and without limit or reserve of any kind whatsoever we shall sell to the highest bidders twenty-five house lots that are certainly beyond question or argument very choice and selected building sites. The streets are graded and very level; are 40 and 50 feet wide; the sidewalks are laid; buildings on the lot will be restricted to a uniform distance from the street lines; only one set of buildings on a lot, no house to be occupied by more than two families. It is the intention of the present owners of this land to make this property one of the ideal residence sections of Lowell for families in moderate or comfortable circumstances to build first class homes in a respectable neighborhood, in an exceedingly healthy location; within easy distance of the city; on one of the most important thoroughfares running out of the city; and the new state highway, already ordered by the state highway commissioners, running across the premises, is to be the best laid out and made avenue in Middlesex county. In the whole plot there are 80 lots, and every one when sold will be restricted alike; the restrictions to hold 20 years from 1895. The lots vary in size, but are uniform in shape, contain from 4600 to 10,000 square feet of land each, and frontages from 50 to 100 feet. It's more than 20 years since so desirable and attractive a sale of land has taken place in this part of Lowell. The land we offer has been in one family since 1807; there's many an attempt been made to secure some of it, but until now could not be purchased at any price. Purchasers, if they desire, can leave two-thirds of the purchase money on mortgage. One word to the public. This is the year to buy real estate. The above lots can never be worth any less. As a matter of fact they will soon be much more valuable; if from no other cause than the natural course of events; better than that, though, is the undisputable fact that as soon as a few of the lots are built upon the others will soon go up in price. The lots will bear the closest scrutiny and examination; and the more you look them over and into the matter of purchasing one, the more you are convinced of their desirability and attractive qualities for a comfortable home. Lowell from the very beginning has made its most substantial and healthy growth in this direction, and, with the new state highway decided upon, the prospects are greater and better than ever. There are already three new and modern houses on the land. J. E. Conant & Co. are to serve as auctioneers.

H. E. SHAW,
G. W. PEARSON.

Sale of Belvidere Property.

Yesterday afternoon the D. C. Brown property on Fairview street was sold at public auction by J. E. Conant & Co., as follows: 11,682 feet of land for 41 cents a foot, and 11,481 feet of land for 25 cents a foot, both to A. C. Taylor; 11,281 feet of land to Thos. H. Elliott for 25½ cents a foot. A. C. Taylor got the house and shed for $1500.

Joseph Marrien pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault and battery on a girl named Perras. It was a case of "lovers once, but strangers now," for though the girl had lived with Marrien in Canada some time ago, she had no use for him when he met her on the canal walk, Saturday night. She said that Marrien called her bad names and when she attempted to strike him with an umbrella, he struck her with his fist over the eye and on the shoulder.

LOWELL WATER BOARD.

More Meters Wanted to Prevent Waste of Pure Water.

The members of the water board devoted considerable time to a discussion of water meters last evening and voted to establish a meter system and to ask for a loan of $30,000, to purchase the 3000 water meters now in use and owned by citizens. The idea is to have the city furnish meters to every customer.

After passing the motion, it was found that it conflicted with the ordinances and so it was rescinded.

It was then voted to request Mayor Courtney to appoint a committee from the city council to confer with the board and see what steps can be taken in the matter.

CUBAN HOME RULE

Would End the Troubles of That Island.

SPAIN HAS BROKEN FAITH WITH CUBA.

General Campos May Try to Make Amends.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Reports reaching here are to the effect that General Campos has advised the Spanish government to allow him to institute a series of reforms in Cuba as a means of bringing the rebellion to an end. It is stated that the Spanish minister of colonial affairs has approved the plan, and it will be put into execution at an early day. It was by such means that General Campos brought the former rebellion to an end.

On Feb. 10, 1878, Campos issued a proposal of reforms, embracing eight articles, including amnesty to all who had borne arms, surrender of the rebel bands in private, where they would not be subject to humiliation, liberation of the slaves, a reform of the government, giving the same privileges already enjoyed by Porto Rico, and release of all prisoners.

This was accepted by the rebels, and the uprising, which had lasted 10 years, was closed. General Campos was given the name of "The Pacificator," which has since been applied to him. Spain was slow, however, in carrying out the promised plan of reform, and it is claimed that some of the promises were never kept. This has

Stimulated the Present Outbreak.

It is said that an offer of settlement at the present time in order to be acceptable to the rebel leaders would have to include autonomy, or home rule for Cuba, expenditure of income from Cuban taxes on internal improvements instead of for Spanish war and naval expenses, amnesty to all engaged in the present uprising, and the full execution of reforms promised in 1878.

A few months ago the Queen Regent of Spain assented to a plan by which a certain approach to home rule was granted to Cuba, but the rebellion broke out, and Spain thereupon suspended the reforms she was about to grant. It is said these now will be put into operation as a part of the plan of settlement.

The conservative classes of Cuba are said to be anxious for such a settlement, and the radical element, it is thought, is too much reduced by defeats to lose the opportunity of an honorable peace, assuring their personal safety.

THE BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

A LEXOW INVESTIGATION FOR BOSTON DEPARTMENTS.

Resolution to Borrow $1,000,000 For the Great Strandway Along Crescent Beach.

BOSTON, May 17.—The senate adopted an order for an investigation of the methods of the Boston departments, a la Lexow. The order provides for a joint committee of the senate and house to sit jointly during the legislative recess. The house voted to reduce the state fire marshal's salary to $3500; the treasury committee reported against the bill increasing the insurance commissioner's salary to $5000, and a number of minor salary bills were engrossed or rejected. The house restored the original appropriation of $10,000 to enable the state to be properly represented at the dedication of the national military park on the battlefields of Chickamauga and Chattanooga. The senate refused to concur in the house amendment to the children's aid bill. The bill authorizing the Brookline Gas company to lay its pipes across Fort Point channel was enacted. The house substituted a bill providing for a commission to investigate the claim of Worcester that the state should reimburse that city for a portion of the expense of constructing its new sewer system. The bill authorizing Spiritualists to solemnize marriage was engrossed. The bill authorizing Boston to borrow $1,000,000 for the completion of the strandway was ordered to a third reading in the house, as was the bill for the further prevention of gambling.

"Laying" For Smugglers.

MONTREAL, May 17.—A number of United States secret service men have arrived here from various points between Springfield, New York and Boston to watch the gang whose members have been engaged in smuggling phenacetine and sulfonal into the states.

Has Enough to Settle.

REDWOOD FALLS, Minn., May 17.—The Citizens' bank has closed its doors; assets, $150,362, liabilities, $100,000. Recently there was a reorganization and assessments on the stock. Some of the holders refused to pay, hence the suspension.

Buckeye State Politics.

COLUMBUS, O., May 17.—A Franklin county Republican convention endorsed George G. Nash of Columbus as candidate for governor. Governor McKinley was endorsed for president and Foraker for United States senator.

Rough Experience.

PORTLAND, May 17.—Two fishermen from a Gloucester schooner, whose names could not be learned, arrived at this port last night in a dory. They were in an exhausted condition. On Sunday they left their schooner at Cash's banks to draw some trawls and were lost in the fog. They rowed from Cash's banks to Portland, a distance of 70 miles.

Confederation Out of the Question.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 17.—Union with Canada has been abandoned. Premier Whiteway is willing to accept the royal commission to examine into the finances only. Whiteway states that Great Britain was willing to guarantee a loan of £2,000,000 had Newfoundland passed the bill endorsing the French treaty, designed to settle the shore claims.

NEWBURYPORT, May 17.—The jury in the case of John Wilton of North Andover, charged with manslaughter, in causing the death of his wife, returned a verdict finding Wilton not guilty of manslaughter, but guilty of assault and battery.

THE NEW WARDS

Outlined Last Night for the First Time.

REPUBLICANS HAVE MUDDLED THE WHOLE AFFAIR.

They Want Their Work Legalized by the Legislature.

The republicans completed the redistricting of the city last night. They had changes to make in almost every ward so that the re-division was not settled until last night.

Hence the new wards were not in existence on May 1, and the rule that a citizen shall vote in the ward in which he resides on May 1 shall not apply to them.

The whole affair is badly muddled although everything would have been done deliberately if the advice of the democrats had been taken.

The bill contains no instruction to the board of registrars to provide a checklist on new ward lines for the next city election. It does provide however that the next state election in this city shall be conducted on the old ward lines but that would have taken place without an act of the legislature.

A few days before the redistricting bill passed, the legislature passed an act providing that the redivision of the cities of the commonwealth with the single exception of Lowell should not take effect till next year so that there will then be no need of two checklists.

The republicans of Lowell were so exercised with greed for a couple of offices that they had a special act passed for their own purposes.

Now they have it so muddled up that another act of the legislature is deemed necessary to make it applicable to the next city election.

They blundered at the first convention by indescreet haste and now they have held another convention to undo much that was done.

This last redivision we are told is legal but, nevertheless, they want the legislature to ratify it in order to make it doubly sure.

What the legislature should do is to put the matter over till next year.

ALDERMAN DOW PRESIDES AT THE MEETING.

The Need of More Sewers Made Apparent.

The hearings on two petitions of Shepard, Russell and Fuller for a system of sewerage at the Oaklands were the most important that claimed the attention of the committee on sewers last evening.

LITTLE MISS ANNA LAUGHLIN

WHO PLAYS LITTLE LORD FAUNTLEROY INTERVIEWED.

She is a Very Bright and Intelligent Child for Her Years—What She Says of Her Profession.

Little Anna Laughlin who plays Little Lord Fauntleroy at the Opera house was seen by a SUN representative today.

She is a very pretty and a very bright child now about eight years old. She has very comely features and dark but not black hair.

She related the story of her experience on the stage with as much ease and intelligence as might be expected of a High school graduate and for more than has ever been shown by some High school graduates.

She says her home is in San Francisco, Cal., where her father, Charles Laughlin, resides. Her mother travels with her and instructs her in English and music which is necessary as Anna left home with one year's schooling. She says she loves the stage and will make acting her life long profession if she has her own way about it.

She first played a child's part at Stockwell's theatre in San Francisco two years ago. Since that time she played in several companies and states that next season she will take the engagement that will bring her most money.

She will give an orange tea after the performance tomorrow afternoon to the children of the audience and likes to meet new friends.

With this company is James Horne who played the leading part in the Soudan here in two engagements. He now takes the role of Haversham, the lawyer, and next season will play the leading part in the Cotton King.

Madame Rhea's Lecture.

Mme. Rhea entertained a large audience of school teachers and friends in the High school, yesterday afternoon, with a paper upon "Napoleon." The paper was a masterly one and her reading of it was charming. After the reading she gave a French selection and for an encore rendered "The Forget-Me-Not" in English. She held a short reception after the entertainment.

The teachers attended in large numbers and they were dressed in their finest, never looking handsomer. One would not imagine to look at the audience that they received no pay for the past three months.

Heavy Suit For Damages.

James Gallagher of Suffolk street, through his attorneys, the Messrs. Hogan, has attached the property of George E. Stanley in the sum of $5000 on a suit for damages. The plaintiff was in the defendants employ last winter and received injuries while driving a sled belonging to the defendant, owing, it is alleged, to the unsafe condition of the floor of the sled.

Dissolution of Partnership.

The U. S. Tea Co., is to be dissolved. A great sale commences Tuesday, May 14th and continues until $10,000 worth of the stock is sold. The business will be continued by P. J. Kinsella, one of the present owners.

On Gorham street, between the long brick block and Union street, the Egan property, large 7-tenement block numbered 251, next Monday, May 20th, promptly at 5.30 o'clock in the afternoon, and without limit or reserve of any kind whatsoever, I shall positively and absolutely sell to the highest bidder my valuable Gorham street property, located as above and exceedingly desirable as a tenement or investment property. It rents for $60 a month and that's a low rental; in the last seven years less than $50 has been lost in rents; the tenements are always in demand and never need be idle a single day; it's just opposite the temporary church of St. Peter's; is between the new post office and the new court house; is in splendid order and repair; has 35 rooms; there's a stable in the rear partially converted into a tenement; the balance is used at present for storage purposes; the lot has about 3000 square feet of land with a frontage of 30 feet; there's a passageway, called Egan's court, on the northerly side; all but four feet of it belongs with the premises; the front tenement was once a large store, but was changed by present owner into a tenement for his own use. Do you fully realize the position and future prospects of this estate? First, it's on Gorham street. Second. It's in one of the best locations on Gorham street. Third. It can never be worth any less. Fourth. No street in Lowell, with a single exception, has changed so much in character and increased so fast in value as Gorham street. Fifth. It's practically needed for business now. Sixth. It will be hard to select many pieces of real estate in Lowell today that have better prospects. Seventh. It has always been a serious mistake made by many purchasers in Lowell, with money to invest, in allowing opportunities like this to pass by and then investing elsewhere because the property is cheaper. You can examine and look the premises over any time. Sale rain or shine with J. E. Conant & Co., in charge. PATRICK SMITH.

CORDIAL REUNION

Of Company A, of the 33rd Regiment.

THE COMRADES TALK OVER WAR TIMES

And Renew Old and Undying Friendships.

The attendance at these reunions is gradually growing less but the enthusiasm never lessens. Yesterday afternoon the veterans were in a particularly pleasant frame of mind and previous to the annual business meeting, they sat around the hall, related stories, and exchanged reminiscences till it seemed like old times and the men were fighting the battles over again,—this time with words not bullets.

Capt. Chas. H. Kimball was here, there and everywhere, looking after the comfort of the guests and to him, in no small measure is due the success of the reunion.

At 8.30 the business meeting was held, and J. Varnum Abbott was chosen secretary pro tem. The roll call showed the following members present: S. C. Smiley, Erastus A. Bartlett, Charles H. Kimball, Henry Hope, Freeman B. Shedd, Jerome B. Brown, John R. Lowell and John McQuestion of this city, Nathan Ladd and T. A. Hardy of Groveland, Joseph Stacy and T. A. Stacy of Haverhill, Harry Messerve of Westford, James B. Smith of Andover, and J. Varnum Abbott of Dedham.

Besides these there were present as guests, Alderman Varnum, Charles H. Coburn, Dudly L. Page, Comrades Boles and Tuttle. Letters were received from Joseph L. Sladen of Portland, Oregon and A. C. Stacy of Boston.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, S. C. Smiley; vice president, John McQuestion; secretary, A. C. Stacy. The time and place of holding the next reunion was left with the officers to decide.

The matter of attending the dedication of the National park at Chicamagua, was brought to the attention of the company, and Capt. Kimball moved that a committee of three be appointed to confer with a committee of Co. A, 2nd regiment and see what arrangements can be made so that the members of both companies may go to Chicamagua.

The motion passed and Messrs. Smiley, Kimball and Shedd were appointed on the committee. The meeting then adjourned and the comrades repaired to the banquet hall where after partaking of a fine spread they were treated to a literary feast.

S. C. Smiley called to order and was glad to see so many members present and extended them a hearty welcome. He recalled that the company was first known as Co. L., Coburn Sharpshooters, named after a Lowell man whose son was present as the company's special guest. He then introduced Freeman B. Shedd as toastmaster.

Of course Mr. Shedd delighted in seeing so many of his comrades had responded to the call and that the gathering was such a happy one. It shows that the ties that bound us long ago have not been severed but rather strengthened. With a few complimentary remarks he called on Mr. Charles H. Coburn.

The latter said that his father had a great interest in the company and whatever he did was done willingly.

He dwelt upon the condition of the country during war times, and then drifted on the subject of patriotism. The lesson to be enforced is patriotism. While I glory and am glad that the people love the old flag, still this should not be carried too far. There is a tendency at present to allow it to enter to much into our relations with each other. We have those today who think that patriotism cannot exist in any one unless he belongs to some organization. Patriotism is broad, and is confined to no sect, and no particular person.

Alderman Varnum of course was glad to be with the veterans. His nomination and election he said came from such assistance as he saw before him. "You could pick out no one more interested in the soldiers than I am," he said. Speaking for the city council, he said he felt sure that it would pass the Memorial day appropriation.

President Smiley spoke in a happy strain and related many incidents of the war and also touched upon May 16, 1864, the day on which he lost his right arm.

He moved that Charles H. Coburn be made an honorary member and it was so voted.

Comrade McQuestion said a word of praise of F. B. Shedd whom he said, he believed saved his life, by the kind attention given him while in the hospital.

Capt. Kimball said he also felt he was indebted to F. B. Shedd for being able to present on this occasion. He assured those present that the regiment had no better friend than F. B. Shedd. "In '62, we had 98 men and 3 officers, and now we have but 10 all told," left. He asked all who could to attend each annual reunion and closed by requesting all the comrades to rise in respect to the memory of C. B. Coburn.

Other addresses were delivered by J. Varnum Abbott, Nathan Ladd, Joseph Stacy, Henry Hope, Comrade Smith, and Harry Messerve.

Monthly Report of The Board of Health.

The monthly bulletin of the mortality and sanitary condition of Lowell during April has just been issued by Chairman Field of the board of health. The number of deaths was 102, number in April, 1894, 130. The percentage under 5 years of age was 41, a very large proportion for this season of the year. Pneumonia caused the death of 18, the same number as in April, 1894, and tuberculosis 18, against 19 last year. Heart disease caused 14 deaths, convulsions 10, and there were 6 deaths by accident. The places of interment were, Catholic cemetery 68, Edson 20, Lowell 6, removed from city 62. Ward One had but 14 deaths and Ward Six 12; Ward Two 24, Three 28, Four 22, Five 42. The contagious diseases reported were 10 each of measles and typhoid fever, 7 each of diphtheria and scarlet fever, and 1 of croup.

Mr. Saunders' observations show that the mean temperature of the month was 47, a trifle above the average; the rainfall was 4 1-2 inches, while the average is 3 1-4.

THE ACCIDENT DELAYED TRAINS FOR HOURS.

A Wrecking Train Cleared the Track.

A long and heavily loaded freight train from Boston to Springfield became derailed at Somerville Junction at 4.30 o'clock this morning. Fortunately, the train was moving slowly at the time and no great damage was done. A wrecker was sent for at once and the work of clearing the tracks begun.

This was no small job, and all trains were delayed.

The Boston mail did not reach here until nearly 10 o'clock, as the first train out was held back. No Boston papers reached here until quite late.

All the trains are running regularly now.

GOVERNOR'S GREAT SPEECH

A PORTION OF HIS ELOQUENT ADDRESS.

He Pays a Grand Tribute to Archbishop Williams at the Banquet in Music Hall Last Evening.

Gov. Greenhalge's speech at the banquet last night caused much favorable comment. Among other things he said.

"So, my friends, while it is difficult for a man either to tell what the creed of another man is, or to understand it when it is declared, we at least know what a man's character is, what his life is, and what the fruit of the tree.

"And so, coming here tonight, I can say with a full and earnest heart, the 50 years of goodly, righteous and sober life which you have met to recognize is something which you have met to recognize is something which comes home even to the narrowest bigotry (tremendous applause) and to the meanest mind. These things in a saintly life may be read of all men and understood by all men. (Applause.)

"It is such piety and such a character we memorialize on this occasion. (Renewed applause.) It was Sir Thomas Brown who said, speaking at an early age. 'My life is a miracle of 30 years.' But what a larger miracle confronts us here tonight—a miracle of 50 years consecrated to the service of the Lord, and to the service of humanity.

"I know something about this most reverend man, and I came here to pay my tribute, official and personal, to him as a man of God, and as a man of humanity, as the boy of Boston (applause), and as the citizen of Massachusetts. (Prolonged applause.)

In concluding he said: "To the most reverend archbishop I give my warmest congratulations, my deepest and best wishes for the future, and as this day closes into the past, freighted with the glories and the blessings of all good and earnest men and women, may the fragrance that comes from it and may the melodious echoes that come from it sweeten and make musical and beautiful the future, from generation to generation." (Great applause.)

Iolanthe will be the opening attraction, with Mr. Gilbert in the cast.

REDISTRICTING CONVENTION

WARD LINES SETTLED AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING.

Changes in the Description of Ward Lines and in Some of the Lines Themselves—The Work Now to be Ratified by the Legislature.

The republican aldermen and councilmen, last evening, amended, or better perhaps corrected the redistricting plans adopted by them a couple of weeks ago.

The result of last evening's meeting goes to show just what a bungle they made in their mad rush to get the redistricting plans through the city council. Had the plans been allowed to stand as originally adopted, some of the voters would have been in rather a queer position, and there would be plenty of confusion on election day.

Had these republican councilmen and aldermen, not resorted to the high-handed business they did in adopting the redistricting plan and give the democratic members some time to consider the plans, it is safe to say there would have been no need of last evening's meeting.

Only seventeen members responded to the roll call, the democrats refusing to take part, and two of the republican aldermen being at a meeting of the sewer committee.

Alderman Varnum, presided and the resolution to revise and amend the redistricting plans was introduced by Alderman Tryder and passed.

The corrections made at first seem of little importance, the more you consider them, the greater appear the blunders made.

In Ward One they changed the line so that now it runs through Central and Gorham streets to the central line of Appleton street instead of through Central street alone.

The original plans had the boundary running northwesterly through Hancock avenue instead of northeasterly and so the correction was made.

Then the line down the middle of Salem street to the middle of Cabot, was changed by saying "The line down the middle of Salem and Market streets to the middle of Cabot.

In Ward Five the change more particularly defines the points at Rogers street by the words "opposite the central line of Concord street," and there is the same sort of a change at Lakeview avenue by the words "opposite the central line of Fulton street."

In Ward Seven the change was made so as to have it correspond with the changes made in Ward Two.

Only minor changes are made in Ward Nine.

The order said in conclusion. "And it is further ordered, that the vote of this convention at its last meeting making a new division of the city into nine wards, and the records of said meeting be so amended as to incorporate therein the corrections enumerated in this order."

The order was then adopted as read.

An order was also adopted authorizing Alderman Varnum to petition the legislature to ratify and confirm the new division of the city in to wards.

THE GLADSTONE CLUB.

Arrangements Perfected for the Events at Tonight's Meeting.

The meeting of the Gladstone club will be held tonight at the club rooms on Middle street and as the bouts are to be interesting it is thought the members will all turn out.

The assessment has been reduced one dollar since the opening of the club to accommodate many lovers of the sport, who were willing to become members but couldn't well afford to pay a high membership fee.

It is probable that Billy Smith will be in Sears' corner. The boxing will begin at eight o'clock sharp.

A number of Lowell sports will attend the meeting of the Suffolk club Monday evening, when Dick O'Brien and "Kid" McCoy will meet. The preliminary bouts will also be good ones.

A big crowd is expected tomorrow when Nashua will have it with Lowell. The game will be a good one, as Nashua Fitchburg and Lawrence are the greatest rivals of Lowell.

A large crowd will go down to Lawrence, Tuesday to see Jerry O'Sullivan lose $11 again and incidentally see the Indians done up. Flanagan will need to keep his courage up and his good humor likewise, as the cranks will undoubtedly try to get him mad before the game begins. Regarding that $11 I was pleased to know that the Sentinel came out as usual the next day.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 17.—The four masted barkentine, Josephine, Capt. McLean, which left Rio Janerio, April 10, with a cargo of $200,000 worth of coffee for Baltimore, went ashore, last night, on Little Island shore, 18 miles south of Cape Henry. It is feared the vessel will be lost. The crew was rescued.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING TO BE HELD THIS EVENING.

The Answers of the Mill Agents May be Considered and Action Taken.

The meeting of the Spinners' union which will be held this evening will be watched with interest by the mill operatives of the city for it was they who appointed a committee to meet the different mill agents of the city and demand a restoration of the ante-hard times schedule of wages.

This demand took a general form and actuated the unions throughout the various textile cities and in many places it met with success. But in this city, while the action of the spinners in appointing the committee caused a sensation in labor circles and a general demand in all departments was anticipated, the boom, if it might be so called, appears to have either died out or else it is now going through the period of calmness that precedes the battle.

The matter may come up at tonight's meeting, yet it is not certain that it will be even mentioned.

A SUN reporter called on President McCann of the Spinners' union for information upon the matter. But that gentleman had no information which he cared to give to the public.

LOWELL is getting down in the base ball scale. Don't go on on that downward grade. Start upward again. Captain Flanagan, Manager Mahoney, don't be beaten.

JUDGE HADLEY decides that an officer in making an arrest on a warrant should have the warrant with him and show it. That is nothing new although it does not seem to have been the custom with the Lowell police.

WILL THE supreme court decide on the quo warranto case on the 21st instant? If it decides in favor of Sullivan what then? A jury trial that will last a year. If against Sullivan, what? A writ of ouster and another fight for the presidency.

THE REDISTRICTING convention completed its work last night. Now every illegality as seen by republicans has been overcome. The fraud that disfranchises half the people of the city for a number of years is to be dignified by the name of law but the legislature has yet to make it law.

MAYOR COURTNEY has exploded the subterfuge of the republican councilmen in claiming that they would have entered meeting and done business if they had been called together on the same night with the aldermen. They have been called on the same night no less than three times but still they refused to enter meeting. They have some great leaders outside their ranks who put the fight for a couple of offices ahead of the city's business which they were elected to perform. We want a law providing for the punishment of aldermen or councilmen who fail to perform their duties or openly ignore the purpose of their election, the demand of the people and the appeals of the chief executive of the city.

A WORD TO PARENTS.

The fatality on Middlesex street coming so soon after that on Westford street should teach parents to keep their children off the streets. Motormen and drivers know how hard it is to avoid running over children, inasmuch as they run after teams, catch on behind, steal rides, run in front of cars and in a thousand ways leave themselves liable to be run over. It is time that parents should realize that the car track is not the place for their children. Parents are more to blame than anybody else for these railroad fatalities because they should not allow little children to frequent car tracks or to be near any danger of the kind.

ARCHBISHOP WILLIAMS' GOLDEN JUBILEE.

No event in the history of the Catholic church in this country ever brought together as large a number of distinguished prelates as are now celebrating the golden jubilee of Archbishop Williams' ordination. It is an important epoch in the life of the church in America for within the past fifty years under the guidance of Archbishop Williams the Catholic church has had a most prosperous growth, a growth unequalled in any other part of the country within the same period or perhaps at any period. To his pious zeal, his quiet but firm and conservative ways, his executive ability and his indefatigable efforts in overcoming difficulties, may be attributed the high status of the church in this country. If Archbishop Williams were willing to accept higher honors at the hands of the Holy See, they would be conferred ere now, but humility is one of his strongest characteristics. He wants no higher honors, indeed their is reason to believe that His Grace earnestly begged that they should not be thrust upon him in his declining years. Other men may surpass him in qualities of brilliancy, they may be more learned and better orators; indeed His Grace never made any pretence to being an orator, although a good, forcible preacher, but none excels him as the administrator of a large diocese. He has, moreover, the faculty of winning the good will and esteem of all classes, so that he is beloved and revered by the entire public of Boston as a power for good in the community, a power whose influence goes outside Boston uplifting the weak, leading humanity onward in the path of righteousness, making obedience to the laws of God and our country, the rule of conduct for all men.

LET IT BE DISCUSSED.

The Board of Trade at its last meeting discussed the proposition to establish a purchasing agency for the city as suggested by THE SUN some time ago. Mr. Chalifoux believes that such an agency, if properly conducted, would be a source of great saving to the city. It is no harm to discuss the question on its merits and if in the judgment of men who have had experience in such matters the change would be beneficial let it be effected. If there was a purchasing agency removed from politics the republicans of the common council would not go on strike to prevent Pres. Sullivan from appointing committees.

DON'T AGREE WITH RECORDS.

McKinley's Statements Concerning the Treasury Condition In 1893.

The inaccuracies which Governor McKinley indulged in in his recent Hartford speech continue to excite comment and criticism. Among the very glaring misstatements was that which alleged that the Harrison administration at the close of its term of office "turned over to Mr. Cleveland's administration $124,000,000 surplus."

It is well known that on the 20th of February, 1893, just 13 days before the expiration of President Harrison's term, the then secretary of the treasury, Mr. Charles Foster, instructed the chief of the bureau of engraving and printing to prepare plates for the issue of bonds to supply an impending treasury deficiency. The fact was first brought to notice by the Kansas City Times and has since been widely published by the leading newspapers of the country.

But that is not the only evidence in contradiction of Governor McKinley's misstatement of facts. On the 25th of February, 1893, only a week before the expiration of Harrison's term of office, Secretary of the Treasury Foster appeared before a committee of congress and stated that "while there is no fear of a bankrupt treasury the situation is one demanding serious consideration," and added that he thought "there would be a surplus of $17,000,000 on July 1, 1893."

There is an ancient but not commendable code of morals which holds that "a lie well stuck to is as good as the truth," but that was at a time when records were inaccessible. Governor McKinley, who is a last century statesman, seems still to adhere to that idea, but he's not likely to convince the public in the face of the facts.—Kansas City Times.

There Is Nothing the Matter With the Democratic Tariff.

There is unquestionably a remarkable revival of industry all over New England. Fall River has advanced the pay of operatives from 10 to 12 per cent, and other centers of the textile industry have followed. This is only one phase of the revival. The shoe towns are doing a rushing trade, and, in fact, there is increased activity from Maine to Rhode Island.

The revival in the textile factories, marked by a general increase of wages, is most noticeable because most recent. The wage schedule in Fall River, which has gone into effect, affects about 25,000 employees. The advance in most cases ranges from 10 to 12 per cent, and this means an increase of from $15,000 to $20,000 in the weekly pay rolls of the city.

In Providence and other parts of Rhode Island the manufacturers are coming back to the rates that prevailed before 1893. The Weybosset Woolen mills of Olneyville have increased wages $1.05 per week, and the largest cotton manufacturers will undoubtedly follow the example of Fall River. Down in the Quinnebogg valley notices of increase have been made, and 6,000 operatives are happily affected in western Rhode Island and eastern Connecticut mills.

In Haverhill business is good, and wages will be increased just as soon as the local board of conciliation and arbitration can decide upon a scale.

In Weymouth the shoeshops are turning out large amounts of goods, and some are so rushed with orders that they are compelled to run holidays.—New York Mercury.

How to Make Croutons.

To make croutons butter a slice of evenly cut bread. Divide it into cubes that will be one-third of an inch on a side. This will necessitate cutting the slice of bread exactly a third of an inch thick. Place these little cubes on a tin plate or shallow dish and put the dish on the grate in a moderate oven for 15 minutes. When done, they should be light golden brown throughout, crisp and brittle. Sometimes cubes of bread are fried in fat to resemble croutons, but unless done by a skillful hand they lack the delicate flavor of those which are buttered and browned in an oven.

"Sweated" Clothing.

Deputy Factory Inspector John Franey of New York says that all but 15 of the 385 wholesale clothing manufacturers in New York city have their goods made up in sweatshops, and the goods generally lie for some time in the rooms occupied night and day by the sweaters. Since the passage of the factory law about 15,000 sweaters have been driven out of New York, and complaints were received from the New Jersey inspectors saying that their law was not adequate to cope with them.

HIS LITTLE SURPRISE.

But He Wouldn't Wait to See How She Liked It.

They had eaten a philopena, and as the result was doubtful they each decided to pay the forfeit, which had been left for the loser's own selection.

They happened to meet on the street that day, and as he turned to walk back with her he said:

"I've just come from your house, Miss Edith, and I hope you will like what I have left there."

"Oh, I'm sure I shall. You always have such lovely taste. I, too, have just sent you a trifle which I hope you may find to your liking."

"Oh, I can hardly wait to go home to see what you have brought me."

"I, too, am curious to know what my present is. But where have you been?"

"I just came from May's. I had intended to remain all the afternoon, but that horrid little dog of hers made me so nervous that I really couldn't stay."

"Don't you like dogs?"

"Oh, Miss Edith, I thought you"—

"Had too much good sense to like the horrid things? Thank you. I knew you would understand me. You always do."

"I—er—isn't that Dick Brownsmith coming toward us?"

"Why, yes, it is. What a well dressed man he is."

"Rather, yes—that is, barring his ties. I never could think anything of a man who wears red necktie."

"Why, I thought you"—

"I—ah—well, here we are at home. You will come in, won't you?"

"Why, er—no—that is, I really haven't time. I—I must go home and see the loving gift you have sent me."

"Oh, don't be in a hurry about that. You really ought to come in and see my surprise and pleasure when I first see your charming present."

"You are sure to be surprised at any rate, Miss Edith," said the young man, with a sickly smile, as he backed down the steps.

His words were verified, for she found that he had brought her a pug, while on reaching home he opened a perfumed packet to find that she had sent him—a red necktie. And now they are wondering what to say to each other when they next meet.—Pittsburg Post.

A Puzzling Question.

"Yonder she comes," said a tall, lank man who was sitting on a trunk near the railroad station.

"Yonder who comes?" asked a fat, heavy man who sat near him.

"The train," replied the lank man.

"Why do you say, 'Yonder she comes?'" asked the fat man.

"Well, that's the customary way of speaking of a train, isn't it? And custom is what fixes things. Everybody says, 'Yonder she comes,' in speaking of a train's approach."

"Well, I insist you should have said, 'Yonder he comes.'"

"Oh, pshaw! Nobody ever says 'he' in speaking of a train," returned the lean man.

"Well, I'll agree to leave it to the station agent and see if it wouldn't have been better for you to have said, 'Yonder he comes,'" added the fat man.

Both agreed to it, and when they had found the agent the fat man asked:

"What is the train just coming into the station?"

"It's a mail train," he answered.

Then the lean man went out and bought a good cigar for the fat man.—Washington Post.

TELL-TALE FACES.

PINCHED AND CAREWORN,

As Worn by Many American Women.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

When pains and aches are felt in every part of the body, when faintness, dizziness, and that bearing-down feeling prevail, when loss of sleep and appetite are reducing flesh daily, when the society of friends is irksome, and the hopeless "blues" predominate, then the face is pinched, haggard, and careworn, and prompt relief is necessary, or a beautiful life will be sacrificed.

An American woman, Lydia E. Pinkham, a student of women and their diseases, twenty years ago succeeded in producing an absolute cure for all diseases of women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands to-day as it did then, pre-eminent.

Mrs. H. Wampler, of Barabo, Wis., whose letter we were permitted to publish last year, writes that she hopes Mrs. Pinkham will continue to use her name, as the publication in newspapers of the account of her own wonderful cure and relief from years of misery has been the means of influencing many suffering women to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and become well like herself. Mrs. Wampler feels, and rightly, too, that in this way she is doing a great good.

EXTRA 5 O'CLOCK

HONORED BISHOP

More About Archbishop Williams' Jubilee.

Glowing Scenes of Splendor at the Holy Cross Cathedral.

MGR. SATOLLI, CARDINAL GIBBONS AND GOV. GREENHALGE DELIVER ADDRESSES.

Many Other Speakers Also Heard—Archbishop Makes a Patriotic Response.

BOSTON, May 17.—Never in the history of the Roman Catholic church in Boston has there been such a service or a ceremony more interesting than that on which the gothic arches of the Holy Cross cathedral looked down yesterday. High officials from all over the country were gathered to do honor to Archbishop Williams by celebrating with fitting display the jubilee commemorating the completion of his 50th year of service in the church.

Of course, the archbishop himself was the central figure, and as celebrant of the pontifical high mass he was clothed in golden robes and wore on his head the peaked archbishop's cap. On the richly draped throne at the gospel side of the sanctuary, where the archbishop usually takes his position, was seated Cardinal Gibbons, whose eminence as the highest official present was marked by the brilliant coloring of his robe and the small cardinal cap.

A Scene of Splendor.

On the other side of the sanctuary, seated on the delegate's seat between two white-robed chaplains, was the delegate from Pope Leo XIII himself, Archbishop Satolli; while on the right of the cardinal's throne, between him and the sanctuary rail, there were seated the 20 or more visiting archbishops and bishops, the rich purple of their robes harmonizing finely with the deeper purple of the desks before them, and serving to set off the snowy whiteness of the robes of their priests in the benches behind.

But little attempt was made to enhance the effect of the scene with decorations, for, besides a display of beautiful lilies on the altar, only a few potted plants and palms were distributed about the sanctuary.

A Gift From the Pope.

After the preliminary ceremonies, Archbishop de Goesbriand passed from his place in the sanctuary down the aisle, preceded by a priest bearing a magnificent golden chalice, which had been brought from Rome, and which received the blessing of the pope on Easter morning. Archbishop de Goesbriand made a short address, in which he alluded to Archbishop William's 50 years of service in the church and to his influence among his people in Boston, and then presented the chalice to the archbishop in the name of the clergy of the province of Boston.

The sermon was by Rt. Rev. Bishop Bradley, who took for his text, "And the people were joyful in the sign of the sanctuary."

After the sermon came the completion of the celebration, in which Rev. Nicholas Walsh acted as deacon and Rev. Edward Connolly as sub-deacon. Rev. Thomas J. McCormack and Rev. Hugh O'Donnell were masters of ceremonies, and the assistant priest was Very Rev. William Byrne. The music was given by an augmented chorus of 150 voices.

The Evening Ceremonies.

The banquet hall was as densely crowded last night as the cathedral was during the morning exercises. Tables were spread for 1000 upon the capacious floor of Music hall, while the galleries were crowded. The hall was a bower of beauty, the tables being handsomely decorated with choice cut flowers, while the walls and ceilings were covered with bunting, interspersed with the American flags and draperies.

When Archbishop Williams arrived, a roar of applause burst from the audience. It had but just subsided when it broke forth again as Mgr. Satolli and Cardinal Gibbons appeared. Governor Greenhalge was also heartily greeted. Archbishop Williams took his place at the head of the guest table, with Cardinal Gibbons and Governor Greenhalge on his right, and Mgr. Satolli, Alderman Allen and Archbishop Corrigan on his left. The menu was elaborate.

After the banquet, Father Ronan of Dorchester, who acted as toastmaster, opened the exercises with a brief address, ending with an introduction of Rev. Thomas Magennis, who gave the address for the clergy.

Archbishop Williams' Remarks.

Archbishop Williams then arose to make response to the address of the representatives of the clergy and laity. His movement was the signal of such applause as has seldom been heard at a public meeting. The archbishop began by saying that this was the happiest day that he had passed in 50 years. "In reply to the addresses presented," he continued, "I have to say to my clergy that I have always had confidence in them and could rely upon them. The clergy and laity have always responded to any call made by me, and they have been most instrumental in the success of this archdiocese. I have to thank all those who have come to [illegible] honor.

"Our hearts are full of gratitude to our holy father, the pope, for his many kind acts to us in Boston. After a day of various emotions, in which I have heard a great many exaggerations of what I have done, let me tell you that I have only been the standard bearer, and when you salute a standard bearer, you salute all those who fought with him. In conclusion, I trust the Union will remain at peace; that the country will be prosperous, and that dear, old Boston will have special blessings."

The Other Speakers.

Mgr. Satolli was the next speaker, and after reading the papal letter his address was read by his secretary, Dr. Booker.

Governor Greenhalge followed. He paid both official and personal tribute to the worth and valuable life of the archbishop as a citizen of the commonwealth and a leader of men.

Cardinal Gibbons was to have spoken on the "American Hierarchy," but said he would ask the favor of being allowed to speak of a member of the American hierarchy—John J. Williams, archbishop of Boston. After this introduction, the cardinal delivered a eulogy on the archbishop and an historical sketch of the diocese of Boston since 1844.

HARRISON AT NEWARK.

NEWARK, N. J., May 17.—The semi-centennial of the New Jersey Historical society was celebrated here yesterday, and the society had as its guest of honor Benjamin Harrison.

The most interesting feature of the exercises was the presentation to General Harrison of a gold memorial. The medal was struck to commemorate the formation of the constitutional government of the United States and the inauguration of George Washington, April 30, 1789. On one side is Washington's head, with the words: "Washington centennial medal; New Jersey Historical society, 1789; April 15, 1789." On the other side are the arms of the society and the words: "Above all things hold dear your national union." Mr. Harrison gets the medal because he was president just 100 years after Washington was.

The presentation speech was made by Dr. Austin Scott. The address of welcome was delivered by Professor Woodrow Wilson. In reply, General Harrison paid a high tribute to New Jersey for having been one of the states which stood firmly by the central government in its earlier days, and for giving way to other states when the nation was in peril through disagreement.

Whisky Trust's Latest Sensation.

CHICAGO, May 17.—The culmination of the charges against J. J. B. Greenhut, ex-president of the Whisky trust, and some of his associates, was reached last evening in a bill filed in the United States circuit court by Receiver McNulta. Greenhut and Nelson Morris are accused of having used the funds of the trust for outside speculation of a personal character. Then, to make good the losses, they are charged with having conspired to secure the assent of the board of directors of the trust to the issuance of bonds in the summer of 1893. That they sold $1,000,000 of the bonds at 50 cents on the dollar, appropriated the proceeds to make up their losses in speculations and secured possession of $800,000 of the bonds so issued at the 50-cent valuation in order to "milk" the trust for the other 50 cents on the dollar, thus giving them a profit of $400,000 on the transaction, besides securing the payment of their losses in speculation.

Fireman Lost His Life.

SARATOGA, May 17.—A New York express on the Delaware and Hudson division was wrecked and the engine ditched about two miles south of this place. Fireman Lamberson was killed and Engineer Meyers severely bruised. Seventy-five passengers were badly shaken up, and several of them received painful bruises. The accident was caused by a heavily laden freight car, which had broken loose from a train, colliding with the express.

Had a Car to Himself.

PROVIDENCE, May 17.—Thomas McDermott, one of the demented criminals who escaped from the asylum at Cranston, was captured last evening in a swamp near Norwood. He had no clothes on, and, although greatly wearied, officers captured him only after a great struggle. He was locked up in a boxcar and taken to Cranston.

How Bookies Worked at Gravesend.

NEW YORK, May 17.—It is said that the manner of betting at Gravesend was conducted in violation of the law. It is held that when bookmakers advertised their calling by dressing in a certain way, or had the old paraphernalia, with the exception of tickets, they committed an offense which was likely to send them to prison for felony.

Dynamite Factory Blows Up.

HOUGHTON, Mich., May 17.—The glycerine house of the Hancock Chemical company at the Woodside dynamite factory was blown up yesterday. One life was lost and several persons were severely injured. The works were blown up on March 15, and one man was killed. The works had just been rebuilt.

More About Durant.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—At the forthcoming trial of Durant, Miss Willis will testify that some time before Blanche Lamont's murder she (Miss Willis) asked Durant, in his capacity of church librarian, for a book from the church library. He escorted her thither, left the room a few minutes and returned entirely nude. The young woman made her escape with difficulty. Similar conduct would explain the absence of blood stains on Durant's clothing after Minnie Williams was murdered.

Worked an Old Game.

PROVIDENCE, May 17.—The police of this city are looking for Thomas E. Phillips, who is wanted for swindling. It is alleged that, in answer to an advertisement for partners, inserted in the newspapers, several persons paid money to Phillips to secure the partnership, and nothing more was heard of Phillips.

NICARAGUA SETTLES UP.

LONDON, May 17.—In compliance with the agreement under which the British men-of-war withdrew from Nicaragua, on condition that the smart money, amounting to $75,000, demanded by Great Britain for the expulsion of Consul Hatch be paid in London within 15 days, that amount was yesterday covered into the treasury of Great Britain on behalf of Nicaragua by Senor Chrisanto Medina, minister to London for Salvador, who has acted for Nicaragua in London throughout the episode thus closed. Nicaragua had until May 20 to pay the indemnity under the terms of agreement, which allowed her 15 days after the British warships left Corinto. The departure of the British took place May 4.

The payment of the smart money closes the incident which resulted in the occupation of Corinto for a week by British marines and the floating of the British flag over that town. That portion of the dispute which Great Britain declined to submit to arbitration is thus settled. Such damages for losses to British subjects in Nicaragua as are claimed by Great Britain and remain unsettled, the British government has consented to submit to arbitration.

Not a Case of Drowning.

BROCKTON, May 17.—Peter Wingdren, a peddler, was arrested last night on suspicion of having murdered Nils Paulson, a stonecutter, whose body was found April 22 in a bog hole in a meadow at East Bridgewater. When the body was found it was given out that Paulson met his death by drowning. Yesterday afternoon the body of Paulson was exhumed, and Medical Examiner Paine found a wound back of the left ear, which was sufficient to cause death. Wingdren is 33 years old. It is not known what motive could have prompted any one to kill Paulson, but it is believed that the police have evidence which they have decided not to make public just yet.

Olneyville Strikers' Terms.

PROVIDENCE, May 17.—The strikers have issued the following statement: They want two mills a pick in computing wages of weavers; cloth must be measured on a basis of 36 inches to the yard, and not on 37 and 38, as heretofore; the two-loom system must be abolished; the fine system must be also done away with, and in all other departments must be the same as those paid prior to the cut-down of 1893. The strikers say they will not return, under any circumstances, unless the manufacturers come to terms.

Tied Up at Manchester.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 17.—Seven million feet of logs are stalled in the Merrimac river opposite this city, the drive of A. L. Brooks & Co. of Lowell having reached here yesterday. A gang of 65 men are managing the drive, which could not be started over the falls on account of repairs which are being made to the Amoskeag bridge. It will take three weeks for the drive to pass this city.

To Spread Unitarianism.

BOSTON, May 17.—A new departure in Unitarianism in this city will be introduced Sunday afternoon, when the first of a series of popular religious services will be held on Boston Common, at which Revs. E. E. Hale and Mr. Walkley will speak. They will be followed on successive Sundays by other leading clergymen of the Unitarian belief.

The Wages of Sin.

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—The funeral of State Senator Peter B. Morrissey, who was shot and killed by his mistress, Maud Davis, took place yesterday. There were no prayers over the remains, and no services of any kind at either the house or cemetery were held, owing to the refusal of the Catholic clergy to conduct them.

Blackhawk Is No More.

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis., May 17.—During a drunken row at the Indian camps, Jim Swallow and George Blackhawk, two braves, got into a quarrel and settled their troubles with knives. Blackhawk was literally cut to pieces. The sheriff is looking for Swallow.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Assistant Secretary Sims of the interior department signed requisitions yesterday for $19,140,000 for quarterly payment of pensions at six agencies. The amounts in New England were: Boston, $1,700,000; Augusta, $670,000.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The condition of Representative Cogswell of Massachusetts is quite serious. He is reported to be much weaker.

SMOKY CITY SLUGGERS

Proved to Be a Little Too Heavy For the Men From Gotham.

PITTSBURG, May 16.—The good batting of the home team and the inability of the New Yorkers to hit Hawley were the causes of the defeat of the visitors. Spirited base running on both sides was the feature of the game.

Story Needs Confirmation.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 17.—Private letters received from Honolulu declare that a change of administration will soon occur there, and that the change is advocated by no less an important personage than ex-Minister Thurston. At a recent conference between Mr. Thurston and President Dole and members of his cabinet, the former declared that the only hope of permanent peace on the islands will be in placing Princess Kaiulani in the position which the former monarchy proposed that she should some day have. Passengers on the Australia have confided the fact that the republic is on its last legs. "An alarm is likely to be sounded any night," remarked one passenger, "and if it is, you can expect to hear of the downfall of the republic. There is no escape for it. The people are dissatisfied, and particularly the Americans, who, if aroused, will find at their sides all the assistance they need to effect a change in the government."

Sequel to the Pitzel Case.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—The grand jury yesterday found an indictment against Jeptha D. Howe, Marion Hedgpeth and Herman Mudgett, charging them with conspiring to cheat and defraud the Fidelity Mutual Life association out of $10,000. The alleged fraud perpetrated by the defendants was the palming off a dead body as that of Benjamin Pitzel, whose life was insured in the Fidelity company for $10,000, whereas the body found was not that of Pitzel, who, it is said, is still alive.

Cars and Snowplows Burned.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., May 17.—Early this morning the power house of the Lynn and Boston railroad here collapsed, and the building is a complete wreck. The roof fell in owing to the sinking of one side of the structure where the piling was weak. Norman Bishop, the only employe in the building, heard the crash in time to escape before the roof fell. Twenty cars and seven snowplows were considerably damaged. The loss is over $5000.

Pair of Alleged Swindlers.

BOSTON, May 17.—William N. Langley, 41 years old, is under arrest on a charge of conspiring to defraud the public in conjunction with Charles Stuckland, real estate dealer. Stuckland was arrested some time ago on a charge of selling real estate for many times more than its value, through false statements. It is alleged that Langley was interested in the deal.

Newfoundland Says No.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 17.—The terms offered by Canada to induce Newfoundland to enter the Dominion are so unsatisfactory it is expected the legislature will unanimously reject them. The whole proceedings of the conference were tabled yesterday in the assembly. But for legally necessary formalities they would have been thrown out.

Better Late Than Never.

LONDON, May 17.—The chief of police of Detroit has applied to the chief of police of Blackheath, Eng., for the letters in the case of Emma Hall, whose death in a lying-in hospital at Detroit was the result of trouble growing out of her relations with Rev. Jonathan Bell.

Killed In the Senate.

ALBANY, May 17.—The legislature adjourned yesterday afternoon, and the greater New York bill was lost in the senate after the referendum had been adopted by a vote of 16 to 14. The bill was killed by laying on the table.

ARMENIAN LAWS

Reforms Suggested By the Powers to Sultan.

THEY ARE FAVORABLY RECEIVED AT PORTE.

Impression That Abuses Would Soon Revive.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 17. — The note presented to the sultan by the representatives of the powers, respecting reforms in Armenia, comprises 25 closely written quarto pages. Among the measures preliminary to the reforms, the note demands the appointment of a high commissioner general amnesty for and release of all political prisoners, the revision of certain judgments and the appointment of a commission to sit at Constantinople, charged with the surveillance and application of the reforms, and working in concert with the high commission previously referred to.

The principal reforms demanded are that the governors and vice governors of Van, Erzeroun, Sivas, Bitlis, Kharput and Trebizonde be Christian or Mussulman, according to how the population of these places is divided. In any case, the governor or vice governor is to be a Christian. The note also suggests that such officials should first be Approved by the Powers.

In regard to the finances, all the taxes are to be collected by the local and not by state officials, and enough is to be retained before the money is forwarded to Constantinople to defray the cost of local administration. This is the exact opposite to the present system, by which taxes are first sent to Constantinople, from which city but little money returns to Armenia.

The judicial reforms proposed by the powers make radical changes in the present system, ensure proper trials, the surveillance of prisons and the total abolition of torture. The gendarmerie, or police, is to be composed equally of Turks and Christians, and the latter and Kurds are still to be retained in the notorious nomadian cavalry, but they are not to be allowed to have arms, except during drill. Finally, the government is asked to revoke the law against Compulsory Conversion to Islam.

In many circles here it is contended that the foregoing reforms are quite inadequate, and that the abuses complained of by the Armenians will soon recommence.

The sultan read the note of the powers attentively, and his reception of it was not unfavorable. It is understood that he recognized that the proposals do not compromise his sovereign rights or dignity.

He has had several conferences with various ambassadors, and in an audience with Baron Calice, the Australian ambassador, the latter strongly urged the sultan to acquiesce with the demands of the powers. The sultan was not offended and sent him a valuable present. He appeared to count upon the moral support of Emperor William of Germany, to whom he has sent an autograph letter by Bertram Effendi, under secretary of the bureau of indirect taxation.

BALFOUR'S METHODS.

Tapped Building Company and Martin's Bank For Goodly Sums.

LONDON, May 17.—Jabez Spencer Balfour was again arraigned in court yesterday to answer further charges of fraud. Part of the evidence taken related to the diversion of funds from the Building Securities company toward speculations in land in which Lord Sudeley was concerned. Balfour drew from the building company for these purposes £7770 ($38,850).

JABEZ SPENCER BALFOUR.

Sudeley testified that he agreed with Balfour to form a syndicate to purchase land in Kansas. He and Balfour, together with Balfour's son, had shares amounting to £17,400 ($87,000), which were obtained by a loan from Martin's bank.

The secretary of the Building company testified that Balfour told him that the company's shares were deposited in Martin's bank as security for a loan to himself and Sudeley.

China Without a Navy.

LONDON, May 17.—The Brussels correspondent of The Telegram says that, by command of the emperor, the Chinese admiralty was dissolved March 24, owing to the abject incompetence of its officials and a deficit of over $5,000,000. There is no prospect that the department will be reestablished, or that China will buy any more warships abroad.

Oscar Isn't Feeling Well.

LONDON, May 17. — The attorney for Oscar Wilde, referring to rumors that his client would forfeit his bail, states that Wilde will certainly appear for trial when wanted. Wilde is at his mother's house in Chelsea. His health is in a wretched condition.

At the End of the Year.

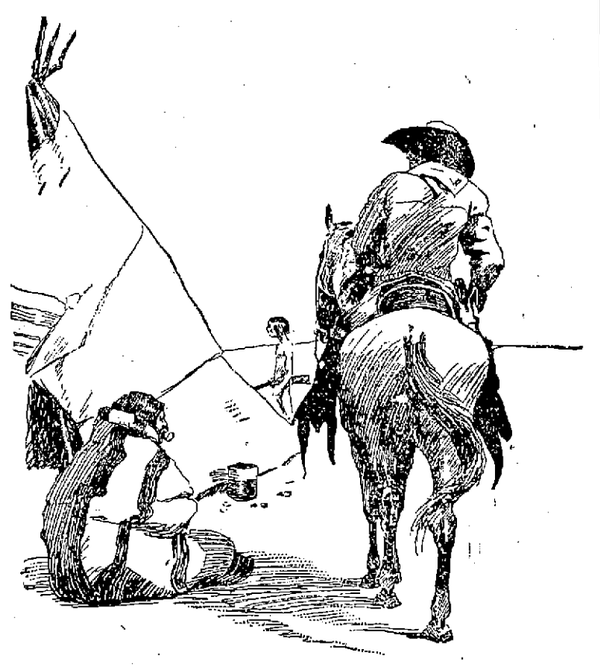

ST. PETERSBURG, May 17.—It is learned from Japanese sources that, in accordance with the arrangements arrived at with the powers, Japan will withdraw her garrisons from Corea at about the end of the present year.

Free From Wrecks.

HALIFAX, May 17.—The government steamer Aberdeen has returned from Sable Island, and reports that there have been no wrecks there this spring.

City at a Mob's Mercy.

TIEN-TSIN, May 17.—The troops stationed at Shan-Hai-Kwan openly revolted last evening (May 16) and looted the city. The people are fleeing.

An excellent chance. A splendid opportunity. Twenty-five unusual building lots. On Middlesex street. The new state highway. (Princeton street.) Wood street. Cornell street. Columbia street. Colby street. No grading.—Level.—Dry.—Handsome.—New school house in one corner of premises. Step into the auctioneer's office and get a small plan. Electric cars pass the lots every fifteen minutes. Commencing promptly at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, regardless of the weather, and without limit or reserve of any kind whatsoever we shall sell to the highest bidders twenty-five house lots that are certainly beyond question or argument very choice and selected building sites. The streets are graded and very level; are 40 and 50 feet wide; the sidewalks are laid; buildings on the lot will be restricted to a uniform distance from the street lines; only one set of buildings on a lot, no house to be occupied by more than two families. It is the intention of the present owners of this land to make this property one of the ideal residence sections of Lowell for families in moderate or comfortable circumstances to build first class homes in a respectable neighborhood; in an exceedingly healthy location; within easy distance of the city; on one of the most important thoroughfares running out of the city; and the new state highway, already ordered by the state highway commissioners, running across the premises, is to be the best laid out and made avenue in Middlesex county. In the whole plot there are 80 lots, and every one when sold will be restricted alike; the restrictions to hold 20 years from 1895. The lots vary in size, but are uniform in shape, contain from 4600 to 10,000 square feet of land each, and frontages from 50 to 100 feet. It's more than 20 years since so desirable and attractive a sale of land has taken place in this part of Lowell. The land we offer has been in one family since 1807; there's many an attempt been made to secure some of it, but until now could not be purchased at any price. Purchasers, if they desire, can leave two-thirds of the purchase money on mortgage. One word to the public. This is the year to buy real estate. The above lots can never be worth any less. As a matter of fact they will soon be much more valuable; if from no other cause than the natural course of events; better than that, though, is the undisputable fact that as soon as a few of the lots are built upon the others will soon go up in price. The lots will bear the closest scrutiny and examination; and the more you look them over and into the matter of purchasing one, the more you are convinced of their desirability and attractive qualities for a comfortable home. Lowell from the very beginning has made its most substantial and healthy growth in this direction, and, with the new state highway decided upon, the prospects are greater and better than ever. There are already three new and modern houses on the land. J. E. Conant & Co. are to serve as auctioneers.

H. E. SHAW,
G. W. PEARSON.

Sale of Belvidere Property.

Yesterday afternoon the D. C. Brown property on Fairview street was sold at public auction by J. E. Conant & Co., as follows: 11,682 feet of land for 41 cents a foot, and 11,481 feet of land for 25 cents a foot, both to A. C. Taylor; 11,281 feet of land to Thos. H. Elliott for 2½ cents a foot. A. C. Taylor got the house and shed for $1500.

POLICE COURT.

Nine drunks, none of whom were sentenced.

A lengthy case was that of William P. Hughes charged with getting out of Mrs. Lord's boarding house, owing $10.

The case of John E. Shaw, charged with plumbing without a license, which of course is a violation of the city ordinance, was continued until the 23rd.

Joseph Marrien pleaded not guilty to the charge of assault and battery on a girl named Perras. It was a case of "lovers once, but strangers now," for though the girl had lived with Marrien in Canada some time ago, she had no use for him when he met her on the canal walk, Saturday night. She said that Marrien called her bad names and when she attempted to strike him with an umbrella, he struck her with his fist over the eye and on the shoulder.

If you'll step into the office of J. E. Conant & Co., and get one of the small plans of the land on Middlesex, Princeton, Cornell, Columbia, Colby and Wood streets; to be sold by absolute auction tomorrow afternoon, you may find something to interest you.

LOWELL WATER BOARD.

The members of the water board devoted considerable time to a discussion of water meters last evening and voted to establish a meter system and to ask for a loan of $30,000, to purchase the 3000 water meters now in use and owned by citizens. The idea is to have the city furnish meters to every customer.

After passing the motion, it was found that it conflicted with the ordinances and so it was rescinded.

It was then voted to request Mayor Courtney to appoint a committee from the city council to confer with the board and see what steps can be taken in the matter.

2 O'CLOCK

CUBAN HOME RULE

Would End the Troubles of That Island.

SPAIN HAS BROKEN FAITH WITH CUBA.

General Campos May Try to Make Amends.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Reports reaching here are to the effect that General Campos has advised the Spanish government to allow him to institute a series of reforms in Cuba as a means of bringing the rebellion to an end. It is stated that the Spanish minister of colonial affairs has approved the plan, and it will be put into execution at an early day. It was by such means that General Campos brought the former rebellion to an end.

On Feb. 10, 1878, Campos issued a proposal of reforms, embracing eight articles, including amnesty to all who had borne arms, surrender of the rebel bands in private, where they would not be subject to humiliation, liberation of the slaves, a reform of the government, giving the same privileges already enjoyed by Porto Rico, and release of all prisoners.

This was accepted by the rebels, and the uprising, which had lasted 10 years, was closed. General Campos was given the name of "The Pacificator," which has since been applied to him. Spain was slow, however, in carrying out the promised plan of reform, and it is claimed that some of the promises were never kept. This has

It is said that an offer of settlement at the present time in order to be acceptable to the rebel leaders would have to include autonomy, or home rule for Cuba, expenditure of income from Cuban taxes on internal improvements instead of for Spanish war and naval expenses, amnesty to all engaged in the present uprising, and the full execution of reforms promised in 1878.

A few months ago the Queen Regent of Spain assented to a plan by which a certain approach to home rule was granted to Cuba, but the rebellion broke out, and Spain thereupon suspended the reforms she was about to grant. It is said these now will be put into operation as a part of the plan of settlement.

The conservative classes of Cuba are said to be anxious for such a settlement, and the radical element, it is thought, is too much reduced by defeats to lose the opportunity of an honorable peace, assuring their personal safety.

THE BAY STATE LEGISLATURE

A LEXOW INVESTIGATION FOR BOSTON DEPARTMENTS.

Resolution to Borrow $1,000,000 For the Great Strandway Along Crescent Beach.

BOSTON, May 17.—The senate adopted an order for an investigation of the methods of the Boston departments, a la Lexow. The order provides for a joint committee of the senate and house to sit jointly during the legislative recess. The house voted to reduce the state fire marshal's salary to $3500; the treasury committee reported against the bill increasing the insurance commissioner's salary to $5000, and a number of minor salary bills were engrossed or rejected. The house restored the original appropriation of $10,000 to enable the state to be properly represented at the dedication of the national military park on the battlefields of Chickamauga and Chattanooga. The senate refused to concur in the house amendment to the children's aid bill. The bill authorizing the Brookline Gas company to lay its pipes across Fort Point channel was enacted. The house substituted a bill providing for a commission to investigate the claim of Worcester that the state should reimburse that city for a portion of the expense of constructing its new sewer system. The bill authorizing Spiritualists to solemnize marriage was engrossed. The bill authorizing Boston to borrow $1,000,000 for the completion of the strandway was ordered to a third reading in the house, as was the bill for the further prevention of gambling.

We believe we show the best looking suits for A TEN DOLLAR BILL ever shown in Lowell. They are worth more money, but we closed out several styles of more desirable goods and offer them at $10.

Blue Serge Suits

The very best selling suits this spring are the Blue Serges in smooth and rough finish. Prices are $10, $12, $15. The colors are fast and the fit right.
